South Sets All-Time Construction Record Attempt Is Seen To Oust Rivers And Mrs. Price

Defense Needs Cause Great Building Boom

Contracts Total 97 Millions in Atlanta District.

Riding the upward swing of a great building boom based largely on national defense needs, construction contracts awarded in the Sixth Federal Reserve District soared to the highest peak in this district's history during August, reaching an all-time high mark of $97,500,000, which nearly doubled the New York district's total of $55,000,000 and is $33,500,000 over the previous peak, set in February, 1926.

These figures, taken from the monthly business review of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, showed contracts awarded in this district to be up 394 per cent over August of 1939.

Leads Nation.

"While contracts throughout the United States are finding new levels, the total volume of contracts in this district was far greater than that in any of the other 10 Federal Reserve districts for which figures are reported," the review commented. "Nearest to Atlanta's total was New York's $55,000,000; a sum only 56 per cent as great."

Trade and other industrial activities made further gains in August. Pig iron output in Alabama was at a new high, advancing to 105 per cent of its regular capacity. Retail distribution of merchandise, always larger in August than in July, increased about four per cent more than might have been expected. The August index was nearly 10 per cent above that for August last year, and the increase for the January-August period over that of 1939 was about eight per cent. Wholesale trade advanced 14 per cent over July and four per cent over August last year. Building permits, however, declined.

Contracts Jump.

"National defense is the topic of the hour," the review stated, "injecting itself not only into political discussions but, by sheer magnitude, into every appraisal of the economic situation. In this issue of the Monthly Review, the influence of the defense program is flagged beyond the possibility of oversight by a 394 per cent rise in contracts awarded in this district in August over August, 1939. So large a rise is difficult to comprehend."

Between June 13 and September 13, construction contracts totaling $6,995,000 were awarded for Georgia national defense projects, while Georgia textile mills received $10,567,000 in defense orders.

Generally improved conditions in the southeast also were reflected in increased pay rolls, employees.

Spain Decides Excess Profits To Continue as Tax Bill Is Sent Nonbelligerent To Roosevelt

Political Circles Believe Time Not Ripe for Joining Axis.

ROME, Oct. 1.—(P)—The likelihood of Spain entering the war or even joining the Axis powers at this time in a formal alliance against Britain was virtually discarded by political circles today as Generalissimo Francisco Franco's minister of government, Ramon Serrano Suner, conferred with Premier Mussolini.

Spain, said Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor of Giornale d'Italia, "is and can remain

MADRID, Oct. 1.—(P)—The news that Spain is to remain a non-belligerent in the European war was hailed with joy today in this country which coincidentally was celebrating the fourth anniversary of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's assumption of authority as chief of the regime. Crowds demonstrated in the streets in El Perol, the generalissimo's birthplace.

among the nonbelligerent powers, but its men and its policy naturally belong to the Axis system. . . . Observers regarded it as probable that Franco would keep Spain out of the war until the time appeared propitious for the attempt to make a quick capture of Gibraltar by German and Italian forces working in his behalf. The Spanish envoy, who conferred last week in Berlin with Adolf Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop at the time Japan joined the Rome-Berlin Axis, had a brief talk with Mussolini this morning and then went to luncheon with Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

London Counts 5,000 Dead in Month's Raids

8,000 Injured; City Prepares for Worst War Winter in 2,000 Years

By The Associated Press.

London, under German air siege for the 25th consecutive night, marshaled the defenses of brains and planes and steel and concrete last night in preparation for the worst wartime winter in its 20 centuries of history.

Official estimates of 5,000 persons killed and 8,000 wounded in London in September—compared with 1,075 killed and 1,261 wounded in August—gave stark reality to the gigantic task which must be accomplished.

Again the Germans came last night, adding new casualties to these figures with their initial after-dark raids concentrated on northwest London.

Searchlights were unusually active.

Four Nazis Downed.

During daylight hours four German planes were reported officially to have been shot down. Three British planes were acknowledged missing.

A new and heavy assault upon the Big Bertha that crowd the German-held French coastline was opened last night by British bombers half hidden in rain-clouds overhanging the English channel.

Strait Tremble.

Both sides of the Dover strait trembled under the shock of exploding bombs. Center of the British attack was Boulogne and the Nazi big gun emplacements near Cape Gris Nez.

In Berlin, an authorized source said, the German air force, day and night, is out to keep London from "catching its breath," in outlining what was described as the purpose of Germany's aerial offensive against the British Isles.

In Berlin a British air raid last night and early today was comparatively short-lived, the bombers evidently devoting themselves to projects other than the German capital.

Only a half-dozen shots were heard, far on Berlin's outskirts, and no planes appeared over the capital.

The raid was one of a series that has kept Berlin's residents in air-raid shelters for from one to five hours nightly, with occasional interruption, for a month or so.

British Naval Hero Is Enlisted To Shelter London for Winter

LONDON, Oct. 1.—(P)—With winter approaching and Nazi air raids continuing, the government today enlisted the directive genius of Admiral Sir Edward Ratcliffe Garth Russell Evans—"Evans of the Broke"—to solve the urgent problem of providing warm and adequate shelter for all of London's people.

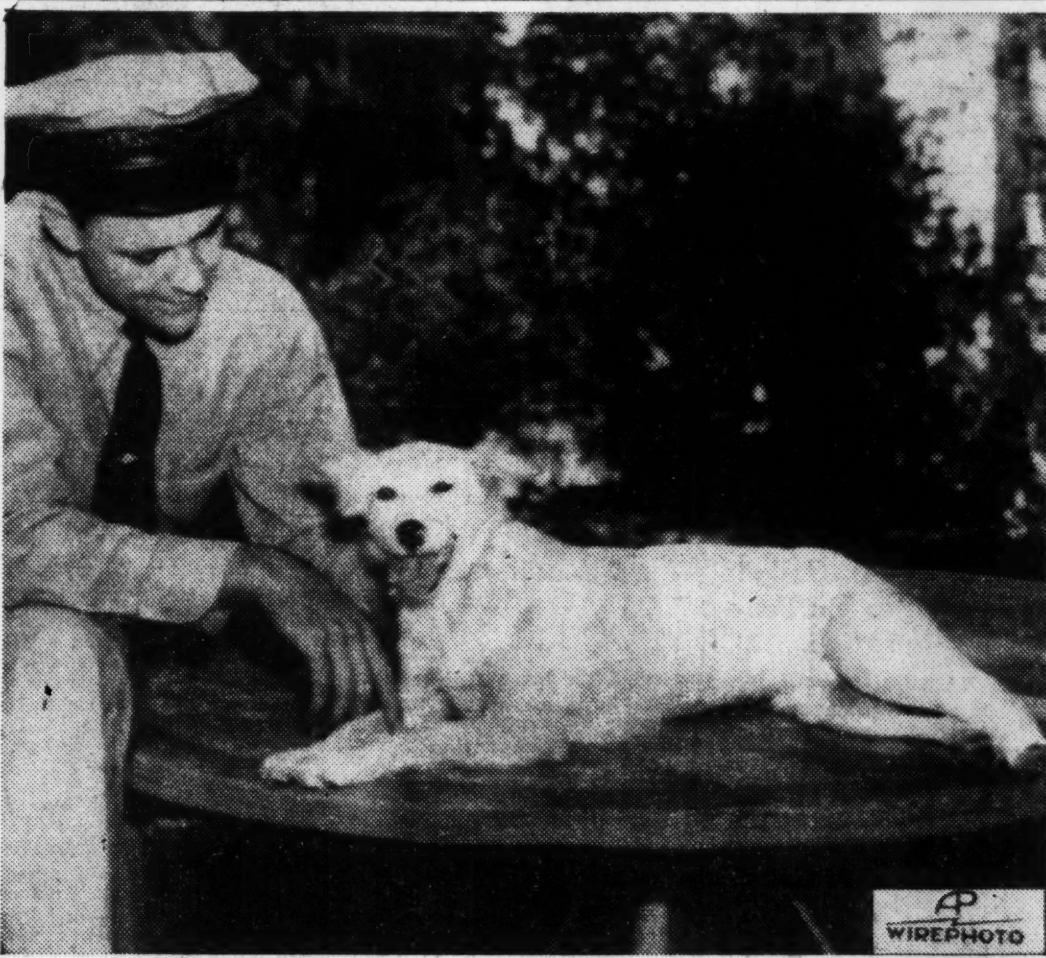

Britons who know him say they confidently expect him to cut through the red tape which now keeps closed at night some of the big shelters under commercial buildings with the same expedition that made him the hero of the Dover patrol of 1917.

For like his old friend, Winston Churchill, "Evans of the Broke" has a reputation for getting things done—and done well. He's younger than Churchill—just under 59—but his name for nearly a generation has been something to conjure with whenever British seamen foregather.

All Britons know of him and even schoolboys know of the Dover patrol exploit when he commanded the Broke with that vessel accompanied by another destroyer, the Swift, reverted to the primitive naval warfare mode of fighting called "boarding" and attacked six German destroyers. They sank two, rammed one broadside, and badly damaged the others.

The most decorated man in the British navy, he was born in 1881. Expelled from school for fighting for pennies in a London meat market when scarcely 10 years old, he joined the mercantile marine training ship Worcester and later entered the navy when he was 16.

He learned at least three things in that hard school: To speak the truth, have a daily cold bath, and never to speak disrespectfully of women.

Ex-Prosecutor 33,000 To See Reds and Tigers Of Woodward Clash in Series Opener Today Represents Him

Clint W. Hager May Serve as Defense at Trial.

Clint W. Hager, who, as United States district attorney here in 1921, caused the indictment of Floyd Woodward on a federal mail fraud charge, may defend him when his case, scheduled for trial here November 5, is called in federal district court.

This was revealed yesterday, as it was learned in official quarters that Hager now is representing Woodward in preliminaries to his return from Los Angeles, Cal., where he was caught 10 days ago after a 20-year flight from trial and numerous other "bunco" charges.

Hager was out of town yesterday, and his legal associate, J. Frank Kemp, would not speak for publication.

In his official capacity as district attorney, Hager's signature was affixed January 5, 1922, to the specific indictment, charging Woodward with defrauding one J. W. Hatcher of $12,000 in 1920, on which the federal government rests its sole remaining accusation against the captured alleged chief of Atlanta's million-dollar confidence game ring.

Preparatory examination of the evidence was made yesterday by the present district attorney, Lawrence Camp, and his assistant, H. H. Tysinger.

In Los Angeles, where Postal Inspector Herbert N. Graham Woodward's unrelenting pursuer—awaits to return him to Atlanta, it was said that no date as yet had been set for his removal. Time had been granted for arrangement of his extensive business affairs in Monrovia, Cal., where he had resided for years as a successful businessman.

The federal marshal in Los Angeles said no effort had been made to reduce Woodward's $50,000 bail, in default of which he has been kept in the Los Angeles jail.

SAVES PENNIES.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 1.—(P)—Mrs. A. Jacobsen wanted an oil-burning heater, started saving pennies for it. Yesterday she walked into a Savannah hardware store, picked out a $47 model. In payment she plunked down exactly 4,700 pennies, wrapped neatly in piles of 50 and stored in a shoebox.

33,000 To See Reds and Tigers Clash in Series Opener Today Derringer Expected To Oppose Newsom on Mound as Crippled Cincinnati Team Seeks To Return Championship to National League.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 1.—(UP)—The teeming baseball drama that is the World Series will commence on Crosley Field tomorrow with the crippled Cincinnati Reds launching a determined drive to return the world's championship to the National League by conquering the powerhouse Detroit Tigers, the team that dethroned the once mighty Yankees.

More than 33,000 spectators will jam their way into Cincinnati's cozy little park to see two of the game's greatest right-handed pitchers, big Paul Derringer, of the Reds, and loquacious Buck Newsom, of the Tigers, battle it out in the opening skirmish of the 36th annual baseball classic.

During a day of secrecy and sotto voce maneuvers, Delmar Baker, the thin man pilot of the Tigers, finally broke down and officially named Newsom as Detroit's starting pitcher. Bill McKee, the Reds' tight-lipped leader, refused to go any further than to say his pitcher would be either Derringer or Bucky Walters, the National League's top winner who's notched 22 triumphs. All the experts are agreed that it'll be Derringer and will be mighty sore at McKee if he crosses them up and leads with Walters.

The biggest headache for McKee isn't who to pick to pitch the opening game but whether his three cripples will be fit for action. From their actions in practice today, Second Baseman Lonnie Frey, the National League's stolen base king and middleman in the Reds' classy infield, seems definitely out of the first game and Catcher Ernie Lombardi, Reds' leading hitter, also seems likely to be on the bench tomorrow.

Outfielder Jimmy Ripple's sprained wrist didn't bother him in batting practice and he told McKee he was fit.

Eclipse Is 'Hitler Birds'

CALIFORNIA, CAPE OF GOOD HOPE PROVINCE, Union of South Africa, Oct. 1.—(P)—Fears of natives, shouting "Hitler's war birds are coming," ran pell mell into the hills during today's four-minute total eclipse of the sun.

Although they were forewarned, the quick transition from daylight to eerie twilight was too much for the inhabitants who vacated towns in a 20-mile belt across the north-west cape to the Kaffrarian coast.

Talmadge Man Is Upheld in Vote Dispute

J. H. Rowland Declared Senatorial Nominee of 16th District.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 1.—(P)—An election contest committee early tonight sanctioned the senatorial nomination of a follower of Governor-Nominee Eugene Talmadge, deciding against an adherent of retiring State Democratic Chairman Jim Gillis, and observers jotted it down as a curtain raiser for a "Talmadge all the way" party convention tomorrow.

The decision was the first business of committee and caucus sessions as this ten-hotel city bulged with hundreds of delegates, many of them piled three and four in a room, but that didn't matter, for there's little sleep on convention eve night, anyway.

The contest committee decided that J. H. Rowland, Wrightsville businessman, was the qualified nominee for the sixteenth senatorial district seat in the 1941 legislature and rejected the claim of J. E. Hall, Soperton bank cashier and business associate of Gillis.

The decision stated that Treutlen, where Hall resides, had waived its right to elect a senator under the county rotation system in 1938 and therefore could not elect again until its regular turn in 1944. Rowland is from Johnson county. The district embraces also Laurens and Emanuel counties. Action of the contest committee is not final, but must be ratified by the convention tomorrow. Chairman M. D. Dickerson said after announcing the result that Treutlen's waiver in 1938 "seemed to have closed the case."

Governor-Elect's Son Would Become National Committeeman.

By LUKE GREENE.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 1.—The hosts of democracy who owe allegiance to The Man From Sugar Creek jammed every hotel in this spacious city tonight and overflowed into surrounding towns as far as 30 miles away.

There wasn't a bed to be had in hotel, tourist camp or private home as the accredited delegates to the state convention, who will formally cast 410 votes for Eugene Talmadge as governor of Georgia reached 4,300 early tonight, with more still coming every hour.

With their arrival the persistent rumor that Talmadge forces would seek to oust Governor Rivers and Mrs. Virginia Polhill Price as national Democratic committeeman and committeewoman became a certainty. A revised copy of the convention program which had been carefully guarded behind closed doors revealed that a resolution will be offered declaring Herman Talmadge, son of the governor-elect, elected national Democratic committeeman.

The successor chosen to replace Mrs. Price is Mrs. Fred Hayes, of Toccoa, according to the revised program.

Delegates Released.

Meanwhile, an indication that the convention's nomination of Talmadge would be unanimous came tonight from Columbus Roberts, runner-up primary candidate, who requested at Columbus that delegations from counties which went for him cast their convention ballots for Talmadge. Abit Nix, third candidate, previously has released his delegates.

Roberts said he would be unable to attend the meeting because of a death in the family but had given Zach Arnold, state Democratic executive committee chairman, a letter authorizing Arnold to represent him on the convention floor and to request Roberts delegates to make the Talmadge vote unanimous.

The request of the delegates was not a demand, Roberts emphasized. Arnold said here that he would deliver the letter to the permanent chairman of the convention.

To Present Resolution.

Judge N. A. Morris, of Marietta, will present the resolution declaring the two national Democratic posts vacant.

Turner Smith, of Dougherty county, will place the name of young Talmadge in nomination, and Young H. Fraser, of DeKalb county, will second the nomination.

W. J. Andrews, of Stephens county, will offer the resolution declaring Mrs. Hayes elected to the national committeewoman's post. W. V. Lance, of Hall county, will second the nomination. Rumors had been current that the Talmadges would attempt to replace Governor Rivers and Mrs. Price, but the revised copy of the program was the first assurance that this step would be taken. Both the governor-elect

Exhibits at Fair Tell Knowledge Of Farm Youth

Youngsters' Understanding of Needs Impresses Visitors.

Two things impress the visitor to the Southeastern Fair.

One is that showmanship has come to the farm. The other, that Georgia's agricultural destiny lies with its young people, who are bringing to their task not only a willingness to work with their hands, but a willingness to work with their heads as well.

The showmanship is manifested everywhere. In the home economics exhibits, canning now is done not only with an eye to the selection of the choicest fruits, vegetables and berries, but with an eye to the beauty of their appearance once put up.

Groomed Cattle.

It shows up in the amazing care lavished upon the prize cattle, the gloss of their coats, carefully curled, the sheen of their polished horns and hoofs. Georgia boys and girls are growing fine cattle and are bringing them to the show ring looking their best.

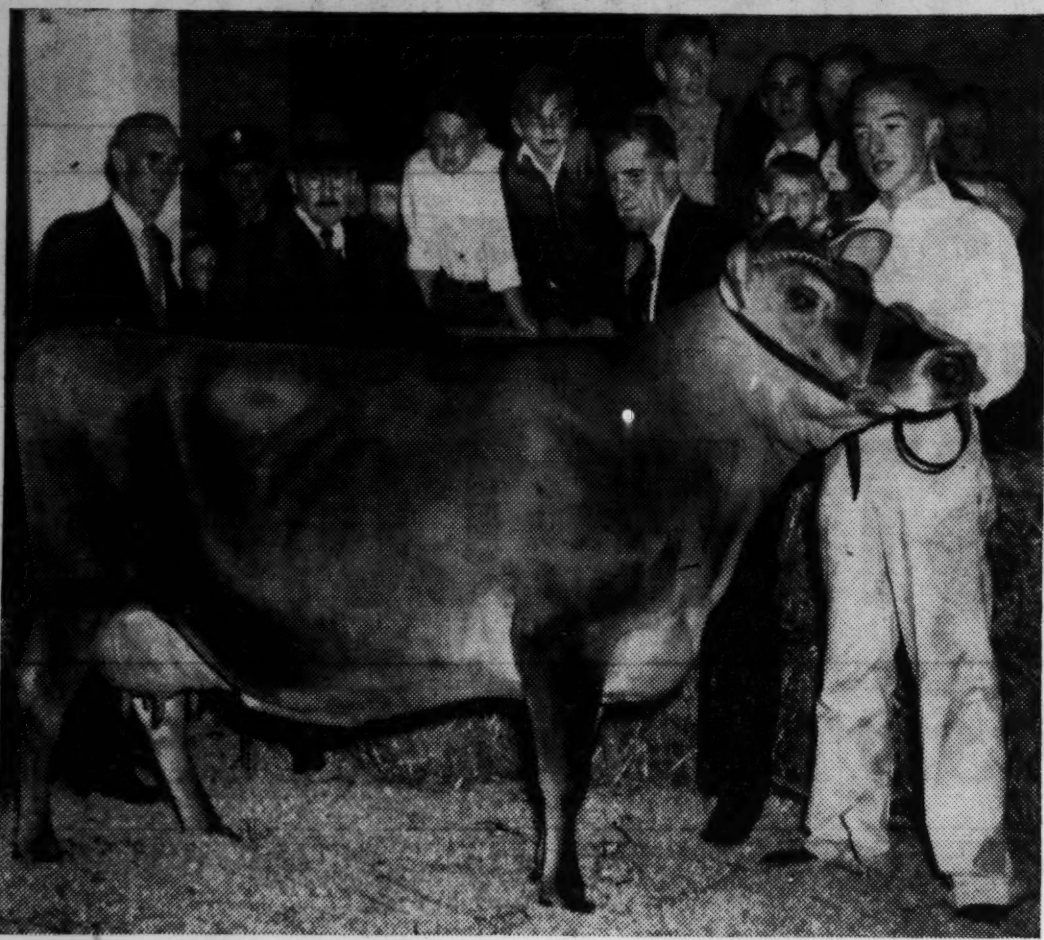

This fair for display, for catching the eye, was perhaps best epitomized in the Fulton County 4-H Club display, where around a brooder played a host of tiny baby chicks, dyed all the colors of the rainbow. It didn't make better chickens out of them, but it could not fail to impress the observer with the fact that chickens are a source of Georgia income.

Significant Talk.

A blond-haired girl, standing upon a platform, talking to a crowd about the proper marketing of eggs was significant of the interest that farm life holds for its youth.

Elsewhere, one might have heard a farm boy judging with mature, expert eye, the points of a beef or dairy cow. Or another, discussing, with a fund of knowledge amazing to a layman, the relative merits of kudzu or lespedeza as a cover crop.

From their interest one would almost believe that the day of the great migration of farm youth to the towns is drawing to a close. These youngsters do not want to leave the farm. They are turning instead, their whole mind and heart upon making their farm a better place to live and living upon it as their fathers have done.

GRAND CHAMPION—Sirs' Standard Bright Beauty was just a big-eyed, unhappy calf that had to be tied outside because there was no room in the barn when she first came to the Southeastern Fair three years ago. Yesterday she was adjudged Grand Champion cow, bringing new honors to the famous Green Fields Jersey Farms at Rossville, Ga. With her are Frank Fitch, dairy specialist; William McPherson, manager of Pebble Hill Plantation at Thomasville; Tap Bennett, director of livestock show, and O. C. Bennett.

Ugly Duckling Calf Now Prize Cow at Fair

Susie Gives Six Gallons Daily; Butter Fat Production High.

By HAROLD MARTIN.

This is a story about an ugly duckling calf that grew up to be a beautiful cow, a bovine Cinderella for whom midnight never came.

It was three years ago that Joe Martin, a Fayette, Ga., 4-H Club boy, brought a soft-eyed Jersey calf to the Southeastern Fair. But he got in a little late, and when he came the barns were full and there was no place, not even a corner with a little hay spread around, where he could tuck her in.

She wasn't much of a calf, after all, for her grandmother was just a $65 cow, and that's not much of a price to set on pure-bred Jersey.

But her grandpa was quite a man, a prizewinner of renown, and it so happened that her grandfather was also her father, for such things happen often in the animal world.

And she didn't even have a high-sounding name. Joe just called her Susie, or something like that. But Joe wouldn't take her home. So he just tied her outside, where she bawled when sad and chewed happily when contented, just like any other calf.

Well, Susie came back to the fair this year, and figuratively speaking they strewed her path with roses, and gave her the best in the barn. For Susie, the weebone calf, became Sirs' Standard Bright Beauty, which for the past two years, from coast to coast, has taken every prize in her class.

She gives six gallons of milk a day, and her butter fat production is three pounds, an amazing high. And the calf that was tied outside when she first came to the fair, now part of the great herd of Green Fields Farm at Rossville, is the grand champion cow of this year's fair.

Charged With Attacking Officer, Woman Indicted

A Negro woman was indicted by the Fulton grand jury yesterday on charges of assault with intent to murder W. L. Jay, city policeman, and for using opprobrious words to him.

She was named as Helen Staggs in the true bill. Jay reported he had told the woman September 26 not to cross the street on a red traffic light. Next day she attacked him with a safety razor blade and slashed his arm as he stood directing traffic on Peachtree and Ellis streets, he charged.

Two Schoolboys, Man Void Nazi Fire Bombs

LONDON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Nazi incendiary bombs fell in front of the entrance to a big air raid shelter in a northwestern suburb tonight but quick action by a man and two schoolboys extinguished them before firemen arrived.

The man picked up one flaming missile and hurled it to the middle of the street. The boys doused the others with sand and water.

Latin - America Officers See Army Review

Pleased at Performance of Famous 'White Horse Battery.'

(Picture on Page 12)
FORT MYER, Va., Oct. 1.—(AP)—The high-ranking officers of nine Latin-American republics, assembled here for a tour of United States defense centers, were guests today at a review of the Fort Myer garrison held in their honor by General George C. Marshall, United States chief of staff.

The review brought 1,500 infantrymen, cavalrymen and artillerymen onto the field.

In a cold rain, the visiting chiefs of staff donned army raincoats issued them by special order of General Marshall and joined him on the reviewing stand.

They saw the small garrison kept near the nation's capital perform, and particularly were pleased by the performance of the famous "White Horse Battery" of artillery which is maintained here as an equestrian showpiece for visiting potentates and statesmen.

Immediately after the review Marshall and staff officers of the garrison joined their Latin-American colleagues at a reception at Marshall's quarters.

In receiving the visiting officers at the White House earlier today, President Roosevelt said:

"We have one common problem and that is the defense of the Americas. We have an expression which is common to all of the 21 republics—one for all and all for one."

General Luis M. Castaneda, chief of staff of the Colombian army, declared the officers' impression of their visit to the White House as one which "couldn't have been more pleasant."

Smooth Sailing Seen at County Meeting Today

Bone of Contention That Caused Heated Controversy Removed.

The bone of contention over which the county commissioners got into their hottest wrangle in five years last week has been removed from the scene and more or less smooth sailing has been predicted for the October meeting, scheduled for 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Commissioners Gloor Hailey and J. A. Ragsdale engaged in a bitter controversy with Dr. Charles R. Adams last special meeting over who was to succeed Tom Davis as a county policeman. Davis was retiring and Dr. Adams, chairman of the police committee, nominated one man while Police Chief George Mathieson recommended another.

Dr. Adams withdrew his nomination then but refused to nominate the man Hailey sought to place in nomination.

The problem of choosing Davis' successor immediately has been removed, however. Davis, veteran of the force, has decided he will not apply for his pension until some time next year. There is no vacancy to fill on the police force now.

ment, bank debts, bank loans and investments and demand deposits adjusted.

Commercial failures declined from the July figure and were nearly half the August 1939 total, while the consumption of electric power increased. Debts to individual accounts in Atlanta banks were $220,151,000, an increase of 12.9 per cent over August, last year, and a 3.9 per cent decline from July.

Georgia's farm income from January through July amounted to $56,028,000, as compared with $58,943,000 for the same seven months of 1939.

173 PERMITS ISSUED IN FULTON COUNTY

Construction in Fulton county outside the city is booming, according to the figures of the county building inspection department for September.

A total of 173 permits for construction valued at $500,655 was issued, the amount being the second highest for any month since the department was installed in 1938. It is topped only by the month of June, 1939, when 107 permits valued at $528,184 were issued. August of 1940 had only 126 permits totaling $355,452 worth of building.

General Motors Division Executives Here for Meeting Today.

The coming year should bring a noticeable increase in all lines of business, with the automotive industry getting its share, executives of Chevrolet Motor Company declared in a joint statement here last night.

Defense program spending, increased industrial activity, better prices for farm products and increased home building were seen as contributing factors to a greater prosperity, according to M. E. Coyle and W. E. Holler, heads of the Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors Corporation.

The two executives were in Atlanta for a regional sales meeting today at which 800 dealers from throughout the southeast will outline the plan for distributing the 1941 models.

The company expects an increase of from 10 to 15 per cent over its 1940 business, when a total of 950,000 new cars and trucks were sold.

Coca-Cola Set To Wind Up Its Arguments

Attorneys Indicate End to Presentation on Friday.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Attorneys in chancery court indicated today the Coca-Cola Company would complete presentation of its complaint against the Nehi Corporation of Columbus, Ga., Friday.

Special Examiner Albert L. Massey heard the 12th day of testimony in the case complaining infringement in the use of the name "Cola."

By agreement of counsel, adjournment for the hearing has been moved from October 14 to October 21 to allow Nehi attorneys more time to prepare their arguments.

Six witnesses for the Coca-Cola Company added testimony in reciting 310 cases throughout the United States where "a beverage was poured from a bottle labeled R-C Cola" when customers requested Coca-Cola or "Coke."

The witnesses included Edwin Forston, of Washington, Ga.; Robert Earl, of Miami, Fla.; Thomas B. McCritchie, of Newnan, Ga.; Walter T. Vetter, of West Palm Beach, Fla.; Guy P. Thornton and William C. Smith, both of Atlanta.

Einstein Takes United States Citizen's Oath

Physicist Calls Day a 'Very Important' One.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Albert Einstein became an American citizen today, beaming with pleasure as Federal Judge Phillip Forman welcomed him with the observation that the scientist's "presence here becomes America's gain."

Taking the oath with the professor from the Princeton Institute for advanced study were his daughter, Margot, and his secretary, Helene Dukas.

After the ceremony, the 61-year-old physicist from Germany chatted briefly with the judge in chambers, but his only comment for publication was: "This certainly is a very important day in my life."

Reminded of sailing, his favorite sport, he added, "I would re-nounce that, too, if it were required."

One of a class of 88 new citizens, Einstein toyed with a fountain pen during the ceremony.

Judge Forman, pointing out that he himself was the son of an immigrant Jewish parent, said: "I am deeply cognizant that only in America would it be possible for me to occupy the position which I do as the representative of my country."

Lieutenant Sacrifices Life To Save Cadet

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 1.—(UP)—Lieutenant E. T. Ostler today sacrificed his own life to save an army flying cadet from crashing to his death in the crackup of a plane southwest of here. When their plane went into a spin Ostler ordered Cadet R. M. Smith to jump. Ostler stayed at the controls of the ship until Smith parachuted clear the plane. When the instructor later tried to bail out the plane was too close to earth and he was injured fatally.

Pack Estimated at Ten Attacks Cattle on Bouldercrest Road.

A pack of wild dogs early yesterday morning attacked cattle on three farms on Bouldercrest road, killing two cows and wounding another before residents of the section were able to frighten the dogs away.

The marauders were discovered by G. W. Burke, who was awakened by the barking of the dogs and the cries of the cattle shortly after midnight. He estimated there were 10 animals running in the pack.

With Amos White, a neighbor, he succeeded in frightening the dogs away, but not before they had killed a 300-pound heifer and fatally wounded a 700-pound cow owned by Howard McCuen and slightly wounded another animal owned by N. G. Beck.

Mrs. Beck told DeKalb county police she saw two of the dogs, believed to be members of the pack, when she went out about 6 o'clock to milk the cow. Larger than ordinary dogs, she said, one was black and one was brown.

DeKalb Detective John Jones said the farm lands around Sugar creek in that section were covered with footprints of dogs and said he believed the animals were roaming the section in search of food. Police warned dairymen in the East Atlanta section to beware of further attacks.

He was born in Newnan, Ga., and attended Georgia Tech in 1927 and 1928. He was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1933 and served in the gunnery and engineering departments aboard the U. S. S. Poor, Rich Join In 'Old Gene's' Hour of Glory

'All-Talmadge' Sentiment Prevails on Eve of Convention.

By JACK SPALDING.

Staff Writer.

MACON, Ga., Sept. 1.—For the first time since the Tories laid siege to the liberty pole in Savannah, back in Revolutionary days, the haves and have-nots of Georgia politics have gone to bed together.

Today for the first time in Georgia political history the self-conscious aristocracy of the tidewater met the banking oligarchy of north Georgia and the mortgage-ridden farmers of the state on an equal footing.

The catalyst is Eugene Talmadge, who sits in his suite in Macon's Lanier hotel, and joyfully surveys the Madcoxes of Atlanta and the Adamases of Savannah making merry with the red-necked boys from Georgia's pine barrens, and rocky, sterile mountains.

Tonight, Gene Talmadge and his boys were having their night of glory. And it looked as if Rivers and all of his aides were to be executed, politically speaking, tomorrow morning.

A band of silver-tongued trumpet and trombone players held sway in the lobby of Talmadge's hotel with "Glory to Old Georgia" as the resurrected Gene held court above in room 101.

Red suspenders were in brilliant evidence as the woolhat boys from Trackrock Gap to Egypt, Edgingham county, rubbed elbows with bespectacled financiers from Atlanta, Savannah, Macon, and Augusta. And in every hotel the refrain was "Old Gene Is Back Again."

"Standing Room Only." Macon's rooming houses had put out the standing room only signs. Hotels, rooming houses, tourist camps, the trailer camps, the parks and the open fields around Macon, for the first time in Georgia's history all echo with the same cry: "He's our Gene—more power to him."

The power is his, but what he does with it is anybody's guess. With things shaping up as they are tonight, Gene and his supporters can do anything they wish.

Coogan To Train Pilots for Canada

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1.—(UP)—Jackie Coogan, who more than a decade ago made $4,000,000 as a juvenile motion picture star, said tonight that he will leave Friday for Trenton, Ontario, to become a flying instructor at the Army training school there.

He said he would retain his American citizenship and would serve only as an instructor, not an officer, in the Canadian Flying Corps. He is an experienced pilot and recently helped ferry a group of private airplanes here from the east.

and young Talmadge had been reticent to discuss the probability of such a move.

Whether the two Talmadge choices will be accepted by the national group was still a matter of speculation, but there were hints that the Governor-elect might have an understanding with the national committee whereby it would recognize the two new members.

Matter of Speculation. It was also held fairly certain that the Talmadge forces would strike again at Governor Rivers through a resolution condemning his administration.

One prominent leader in the Talmadge camp said he did not know definitely that such a resolution would be presented but was inclined to think that it would.

Considerable attention was being focused on the Talmadge platform.

Talmadge consistently has contended that he planned to co-operate with the national administration for the best interests of his state.

The general opinion around the hotel lobbies was that the Talmadgeites would not give the Roosevelt administration any pat on the back, but neither would they unleash any severe criticism.

James S. Peters, of Manchester, who will be chairman of the convention and automatically become chairman of the State Democratic executive committee, said the platform will not take any severe stag at the national administration.

He predicted that the platform would espouse the general policies as outlined by Governor-elect Talmadge in his opening campaign speech at Albany.

A mild attack on a former national Democratic officer, however, was expected to come from one of the Talmadge lieutenants, A. L. Henson, Atlanta attorney, who will nominate Delacey Allen, of Dougherty county, as vice chairman of the convention.

Henson, in his nominating speech, is expected to direct his attack at L. W. (Chip) Robert, who last week resigned as secretary of the national Democratic executive committee. He is scheduled to say that Allen was partly responsible for starting criticism of Robert.

A highlight of the convention was the nomination of Governor-elect Talmadge by T. Hicks Fort, of Columbus. Seconding nominations will be made by the Rev. William H. Crouse, of Bulloch county, and Charles G. Bruce, of Fulton county.

Talmadge is slated to speak on the state of the nation and its relation to Georgia.

Jim L. Gillis, of Treutlen county, will call the convention to order, and will then turn over the gavel to Scott Candler, of DeKalb county, temporary chairman.

Peters will then be nominated as permanent chairman.

Besides Allen, other vice chairmen will be Dewey L. Johnson, of Fulton county, and Mrs. Susie T. Moore, of Tift county. Miss Nina Cox, of Turner county, will be nominated as permanent secretary.

Charlie D. Redwine, of Fayetteville, who is slated to be president of the state senate at the next session, is one of the familiar Talmadge figures missing at the convention. Mr. Redwine is ill in an Atlanta hospital.

This necessitated a last-minute change in the convention set-up and placed Representative Randall Evans, of McDuffie county, on the program as floor leader, replacing Redwine. B. D. Murphy, former assistant attorney general, was selected as assistant floor leader.

As the business of convention was being rounded into shape, hundreds of delegates streamed into this middle Georgia city, which has opened its arms to the Democrats of the state.

Delegates and alternates stood or reclined comfortably in hotel lobbies, smoked their cigars and conversed freely. Virtually all hotel accommodations were taken, but the delegates, many of them wearing 10-gallon hats and red suspenders, continued to pour in. A large number of them coming from the backwoods country, have never attended a state convention, but they seemed to be getting into the spirit of the gathering.

The convention will get in full sway early tomorrow morning in the Macon auditorium.

Joins Committee
To Welcome
Elsie the Cow

It has been my lot as a newspaper man to join reception committees in honor of many celebrities. Grand opera stars, movie queens, visiting foreigners and occasionally such guests of the government as Al Capone.

But not until a few days ago did I ever spend two hours in a windy station to meet a cow. My interest in cows falls far short of enthusiasm.

But bigger and better men than I were in the reception group and even the mayor descended from his office in the city hall to present her the key of the city—which he immediately took away again, the Injun giver. I wonder how many celebrities have smilingly accepted that key and then let it get away from them. But it's three feet long and unhandy to lug around. Besides, it doesn't unlock anything.

This was—and is—a stunt cow. A movie stunt cow. Her name is Elsie and she was shown at the New York World's Fair as the champion cow of the universe.

Elsie led a comparatively retired life at the World's Fair. But then, like so many girls, she went to Hollywood. To play in a picture.

I suppose, in return for the pleasure of being presented to Elsie, I should mention the name of the picture. It is "Little Men," produced by R. K. O., and it soon will be shown at the Paramount. But not to me. I cut my teeth on the Louisa M. Alcott stories about—and for—good little boys and girls, along with the Horatio Alger series of rising to the top by starting in blacking boots.

Mysterious Ways

Having been more or less forced into association for the past five years with one Don Prince, a professional and totally conscienceless promoter and exploiter of motion pictures, I have acquired some information about the workings of the movie mind.

The theatrical press agent of ye olden days would come into town a couple of weeks ahead of De Wolf Hopper or Honeyboy Evans' Merry Minstrels, call upon newspaper, theater editors and critics, invite them out to lunch or dinner and leave with them numerous sheets of mimeographed matter about the approaching show and perhaps a photograph or two. His duty done, he would go on to the next town. I wish there were more press agents like that.

Mr. Prince is more likely to meet an editor, invite himself out to dinner at said editor's house, admire the children and the Persian cat, borrow his host's pajamas and spend the night. But he never forgets to leave a couple of passes, value from 25 to 40 cents each. He's one of the most generous souls I know.

The Hollywood press agent, or ambassador of public relations, depends not upon mimeographed reading matter left with the

Roosevelt's New England Gains Offset Willkie's Nebraska Lead

Massachusetts and New Hampshire Shift to Democratic Column, Latest Gallup Survey Shows; Gains in West Precede Barnstorming.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.
Copyright, 1940.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 1.—A sharp rise took place in Willkie sentiment throughout Nebraska even before Wendell Willkie entered the state last week to make his farm speech at Omaha, and Nebraska is today leaning Republican by a substantial margin.

The results of the latest Institute poll, reflecting sentiment during the first week of Willkie's western tour, show a four-point Republican gain in Nebraska since mid-September. The rise came just before Nebraska's famed independent senator, George W. Norris, enthusiastically endorsed President Roosevelt for a third term.

The trend of sentiment in Nebraska in four consecutive Institute polls, including the latest, is as follows:
"If the presidential election were held today, would you vote for Roosevelt or for Willkie?"

	Roosevelt	Willkie
August 4	44%	56%
August 25	43	57
September 20	47	53
Today	43	57

Approximately one Nebraska voter in every 12 (8 per cent) was undecided in the latest poll.

With the Willkie campaign centering in the middle west and far west in recent weeks, the rise in Nebraska poses the vital question as to how much voting sentiment has been changed by Willkie's barnstorming campaign tour.

Offsetting the Republican gains in Nebraska are important Democratic gains in one of the biggest eastern states, Massachusetts.

Massachusetts had been in the Republican column continually since early August, but in the latest survey it flops over into the Democratic column with a three-point gain in Roosevelt sentiment.

MASSACHUSETTS

	Roosevelt	Willkie
August 4	46%	54%
August 25	45	55
September 20	49	51
Today	52	48

The proportion of undecided in the survey was 6 per cent.

The Democratic rise in Massachusetts may be a temporary phenomenon which will be erased if Willkie invades the state in person. Not only does the poll indicate a G. O. P. loss in Massachusetts, but a loss in New Hampshire as well.

There, in the latest study, a shift of three points in favor of Roosevelt was found by the Institute. Whereas the state was in the Willkie column in mid-September, showing 51 per cent for Willkie and 49 per cent for Roosevelt, today the situation is reversed, with Roosevelt leading by 52 per cent, to 48 per cent for Willkie.

press. He fixes up stunts. Amazing stunts. Such as Elsie the cow.

As a mere bystander, I'd think almost any nice, amiable cow could play the role in "Little Men." I imagine it isn't a lead, and I doubt she speaks any lines. Though I do hear tell she stole the show from Kay Francis, who is starred.

But just a nice $175 cow wouldn't do for Hollywood. They had to have a big-name cow. The big-name cow of the year was Elsie. So they bought Elsie. They could have rented her, perhaps, but it was better to buy her. In case anything happened—or if retakes were needed.

Pampered Princess

But I started out to write about Elsie's reception. Elsie is accompanied by her daughter, Beulah, who was born a month ago in Hollywood "on the set." The event probably was witnessed by the producer, the director, his assistants, seven camera experts and a sound effect man.

Beulah was exhibited with her mother on this personal appearance tour as far east as El Paso. But she acquired the Hollywood complex. She wanted to caper about and show her legs and distract attention from her mother. So now Beulah remains in the car while Elsie sees the town.

Elsie travels in a steel express car—built for transporting race horses. She reclines, when so inclined, on a deep bed of some kind of straw which smells like lemon. She dines off the finest of alfalfa. She wears, in privacy, a robe made of a blanket I'd like to have now autumn is coming on.

Elsie is also accompanied by her pal, a veterinary surgeon who wears an immaculate white uniform. And a manager. And a mere hireling who handles the shovel. And a personal press agent, a big handsome chap measuring about six feet, four inches. Well, a job's a job, but though I've exploited a few politicians in my time I've never become a press agent for a cow. Still, I wonder what that job pays. I'd rather work for a cow than some politicians I've known.

Well, after the train arrived and the reception committee was presented to Elsie, she was led into an upholstered truck, with a garland of daisies around her neck, and taken to the city hall, where Mayor Hartfield presented her the key to the city. Elsie didn't seem especially interested in the key—she had received so many—but she seemed enamored of the mayor. At least, she licked his chin several times and would have kept on if he hadn't ducked.

Elsie is said—if I have my figures straight—to give—or yield by persuasion—24 quarts of Grade A milk per day. That sounds like a lot of milk.

Naturally, I asked what became of all that milk. Elsie's secretary said Beulah consumed a lot of it, from the source, and they threw the rest away. Because of city ordinances. You can't sell milk without a license. You can't give it away until it's inspected by authorities. You can drink it yourself, but one can drink only so much milk. So it's simpler to dump it.

So that's all about Elsie, except that Mayor Hartfield refused to kiss her for the camera, though Elsie seemed willing. He said he'd frequently taken the bull by the horns and he'd heard of the old lady who kissed a cow because she thought everybody had a right to her own taste. But Elsie, at the crucial moment, was chewing her cud. And it was, if she'll pardon me, slightly slopping over.

Good Morning

BY LOUIE D. NEWTON.

A letter came Monday afternoon from Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke, president of the Baptist World Alliance. He was in Glasgow when he wrote this last letter, but was returning to London within two days. Mrs. Rushbrooke has been with their daughter in Glasgow since the bombing of London, and the doctor runs up to Scotland for occasional visits. He writes:

"London is still standing, and standing fast. Britain is not despairing of herself or her cause, though none dream that the way to victory will be easy or uncostly. We are paying heavily for our easy-going lethargy, but it is shaken off now. . . ."

Commenting upon the recent bombing of the British Baptist Mission House, on Furnival street, related at the time by cablegram from Dr. B. Grey Griffith, the secretary of the Mission Society, Dr. Rushbrooke says:

"The British Baptist Mission Society has a unique place in the admiration and affection of our people as the pathfinder and the historic leader in our foreign mission enterprise, and the destruction of its priceless records is a remediless loss. (The society was established in 1792.)

"Meanwhile we will refuse to be dismayed. This new call for sacrifice will be met. The work will go on, for it is God's; and we will be sustained by the grace which, through a century and a half, has never failed the society in its vast enterprise. . . . It would not astonish me if the mission house of the future should stand as a monument of a unique exhibition of fraternal love and common zeal for the evangelization of the world. . . . Our people of every nation will utter their amen to my prayer that in this season of heavy trial there may be granted to the B. F. M. S. the abundant blessing of Him Whose commission it has so long fulfilled. . . ."

Such is the spirit of British Baptists, and such is the spirit, I fully believe, of all fellow Christians at that great nation. The recent words of King George VI, in the closing sentence of his broadcast to the empire, seem to me the finest epitome of the British spirit I have yet read:

"Let us have faith, as I do, in God, and in the unconquerable spirit of the British people." I have never believed that people of such spirit could be defeated, and my faith is stronger today than it has been at any time since the beginning of the Battle of Britain. Let us pray daily for these valiant neighbors who are fighting so bravely for democracy.

Record-Keeping Meeting Planned

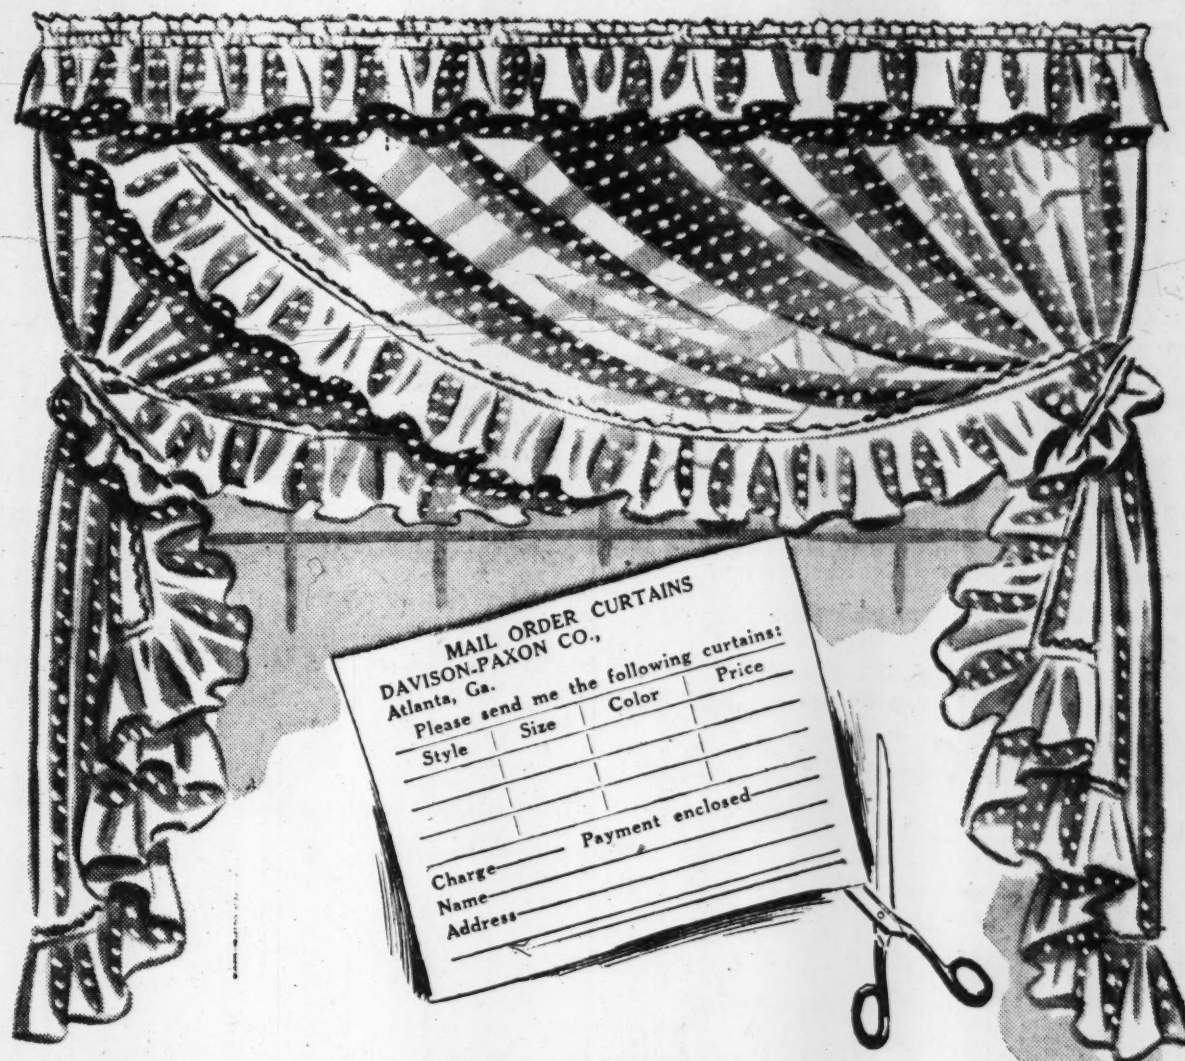

A meeting to discuss record-keeping provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act has been announced for 10 o'clock the morning of October 17 in the Labor building in Washington. Dr. James Johnson, acting administrator for the Georgia-Florida region, reported yesterday.

Meeting was called at the suggestion of large employers who complained that the keeping of certain records is burdensome. They have suggested that present requirements could be simplified without sacrifice to the protection of such record give to employees. Anyone desiring to appear before the meeting or file a statement regarding the proposed change, may do so, Johnson said.

Food Packing Changes May Replace Tin Cans

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—(P)—Revolutionary changes in perishable food packing were forecast today by officials of the Container Corporation of America through development of a new rubber container to replace barrels and tin cans.

Advantages of the new product, they said, were lower costs of packages, availability of quick freezing, and elimination of air in containers which permit partial deterioration.

Several Sought As Suspects in Bold Robbery

Victim Picks Rogues' Gallery Pictures Resembling Bandits.

Police yesterday were combing the city in search of several well-known underworld characters, two of whom were believed to be the men who in a bold daylight hold-up Monday robbed a Woolworth manager and a Negro porter of between $1,000 and $2,000 in cash.

Belief that the robbers were persons well known to Atlanta police was based on tentative identification of pictures in police files by Nicholas Drewry, the manager, who was robbed.

Shown pictures from the rogues gallery at police station, Drewry pointed out several men as possessing similar facial characteristics to the man who shoved a gun in his back as he walked on Broad street Monday afternoon while a companion snatched a satchel containing the money from the hands of Dyrus Cooper, Negro porter.

identification from the pictures," he told officers, "but if these men were brought face to face with me, I could pick out the man who held me up."

The robbery occurred at about 1:45 o'clock Monday afternoon, and was carried out so quickly none of the passersby who thronged Broad street between Walton and Poplar noticed anything amiss. The robbers escaped in a green coupe, turning off Broad onto Poplar, before Drewry had time to note the license number.

OF HEAVEN'S BENEDICTION

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS.

Tony Takes Brooke to His Mother's; She's Amazed When Irene Appears

SYNOPSIS. Brooke Carter, her mother dead, her father remarried, quit as secretary to a Cushman, N. H., physician and goes to New York as secretary-companion to Mrs. Kingsbury, whom she meets while the wealthy old lady was boarding in the New Hampshire town with Rod Westover's mother, Grace. Really Brooke is in New York to be near Rod to whom she has been engaged for four years and who has made himself valuable in business to Barney Glass since he finished college three years ago. She is surprised when Rod tells her he no longer shares an apartment with Jim Bartlett, a drawing southerner who was his college roommate and is now an accountant. Rod says Jim probably thinks him a snob but his position with Glass called for better living quarters. Hesitatingly, Jim tells Brooke about Irene Davies, a wealthy, divorced woman years older than Rod. He says Rod still loves Brooke but Irene is "chasing" him. At a cocktail party given by Glass Brooke meets Irene and knows that she loves Rod. She also meets tall, handsome Julian Carlton, a brilliant corporation lawyer. She dines often with Rod. As she awaits him one evening she gets a telegram stating he and Irene are married and sailing for Hawaii. Brooke then agrees to go to Hawaii with Mrs. Kingsbury. At her table on the ship she meets Harriet West, Bill Sawyer and Anthony Morrison and the doctor, Dr. Morrison is Irene's son. Tony, Tony falls in love with her. He says he was poor until 10 years ago but with an inherited fortune came executives who demand that he study business administration at Harvard and become a banker. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XX.

The ship had been in the Los Angeles harbor some hours before Brooke met Tony on deck, having told him the previous evening that she was certain Mrs. Kingsbury would be anxious to be off on the next part of her trip as soon as they had docked. She had risen early and packed and put on the blue tailored suit. Walking to him, hatless, her hair blowing, she thought that the prompt suggestion of breakfast would relieve them of a prolonged and painful farewell.

"I don't want to get off this ship," he said sadly. "Aren't you going to tell me where you'll be, Brooke?"

She told him the hotel where she would be stopping until Saturday and said, "I haven't had breakfast, have you? Has Bill gone?"

"I haven't seen him. But I saw Harriet before she left with five pieces of baggage and poor Mr. Ricardo looking very downcast in the office." His voice was unfamiliarly sharp. "All right. Let's have breakfast. Our last . . . the last of everything!"

He looked so completely miserable at breakfast that she said, "Tony, call me at the hotel, and if I can get away . . ."

"But you're leaving on Saturday!"

She said gently, "And for how long I don't know." If only he would not look as if she meant to hurt him!

"And even if I can break away and follow to Hawaii, you'll be tied up. What's the use? I'm sorry. I'm behaving badly. You, and the setup I can't fight, and a few other things. I never wanted to go home less. I never felt less like seeing mother's crowd. I've never played around with them much but there are always people there, open house . . . It may be different this time, but I doubt it."

She smiled. "I'll have another cup of coffee while you smoke your cigarette and then I must go." "At least this is better than I had to sit at this table three times a day and not see you across from me."

"Much better. I couldn't bear that either."

The cigarette finished, Tony said, "I can't kiss you here, Brooke. . . . Let's not say good-bye. I've said too many. Let's not say any of the usual things."

They arose together. She said, "We'll meet again," and glanced up and smiled at him before she walked away.

Mrs. Kingsbury and Ellen were, as she feared, waiting, the former impatient now to be on land. She did not see Tony again but as she followed Ellen down the gangplank, she had a feeling that he saw her from the deck. Tears clouded her vision. You also weep for one you cannot love. . . .

That night Tony telephoned just as she was leaving her room to join Mrs. Kingsbury for dinner.

"Will you ask her if she'll let you off tomorrow afternoon?" he appealed. "Say you've got an uncle you haven't seen for years or a cousin in the movies. Say anything. We'll have a lot of people here, but we don't have to stay."

"I'll ask her," he said quite gaily.

She told Mrs. Kingsbury the truth. "One of the passengers lives in Beverly Hills and has asked me to meet his mother tomorrow afternoon."

The old lady glanced at her sharply. Then she said, "I'll be resting tomorrow afternoon."

Brooke looked at the tailored blue suit and frilly white blouse and little pancake of a blue hat and blue pumps as she met Tony halfway across the lobby the next afternoon.

"Hello," he said and his eyes were adoring again.

Outside, when he opened the door of a new cream-colored roadster, he said, "My stepfather's. A beauty, isn't it?"

Brooke smiled. "It's the most expensive car I've ever been in, Tony."

"I've an expensive family. Shall we go out and meet them and get it over? Then we can go somewhere else. . . ."

"Does your mother know I'm coming?"

He smiled. "No. I just ducked out and said I was bringing a guest. You don't have to explain anything to her and she doesn't often ask me questions. She's learned not to expect too much of people, even of me. She's the most completely shock-proof person I've ever known." She looks marvelous. There'll be a good many people there. You might even see your favorite movie star. If only you had longer to stay. There's so much to see here. . . ."

An informative guide, Tony pointed out places of interest. Soon luxurious homes, lawns, and interview and Tony turned the car into a road that led to a palatial white house shimmering in the afternoon sun.

"This is it," he said, parking the car in a driveway crowded with expensive cars. "It's new to me, too. Mother had her house rented. She came back rather suddenly and took this. . . ."

"It's beautiful. . . ."

The huge house was overflowing with people as they entered. Tony nodded, saying an indifferent greeting as he looked over heads for his mother. Brooke caught a brief glimpse of a dramatic actress who in real life was merely a big-eyed little blonde girl in a simple sport dress. A second later she glimpsed a cinema siren who in real life had a bridge of prominent freckles across her famous nose. But the many other faces were strange and totally oblivious to her as they consumed cocktails and lighted cigarettes and chatted.

"Where's mother?" Tony demanded of a tanned youth with tired eyes.

"Haven't seen her, old boy. When did you get back?"

"Yesterday," Tony said and introduced Rick Townsend with some reluctance. Tony looked at Brooke. "I'll find mother and then we'll leave."

Rick asked Brooke how long she was going to be in California, whether she wanted to meet the freckled siren, why she didn't have a screen test. . . .

She heard Tony's voice behind her, saying, "Brooke, I want. . . ."

Turning, she saw Irene in a blinding flash, conscious for a second only that it was Irene, that she wore something long and green, that she had many bracelets on her arm. . . .

Brooke's heart seemed to stop beating, then jumped into her throat, paralyzing her. Slowly, very slowly, as she stared at the small, sharp-featured face with a brilliant painted-on smile, and at the sleek dark head she came to realize through a tumult of feelings that Irene was Tony's mother.

Nor was Irene so shock-proof as her son believed. Though her brilliant smile did not fade, the light of the welcoming hostess, the liveliness of her wise, merry eyes died quickly.

"Why, why, hello, dear," Irene said.

"You know each other?" Tony cried, delightedly. "I don't get it."

Irene said, "Yes, isn't it? But obviously you didn't tell her my name."

And, at the same time on the same night, Eddie Cantor returns to the air in a fast-moving half-hour of comedy and music over WSB.

The banjo-eyed comedian will be supported in his new vehicle by Dinah Shore, Tennessee warbler; Harry von Zell, the versatile announcer; Bobby Sherwood and his orchestra; Rae and Davis, a pair of wacky females, and Tommy Mack.

A romance destroyed by one war and restored by the next is the unique theme of the Nora Stirling drama which will be broadcast on the "Manhattan at Midnight" program over WAGA at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Elspeth Eric and Walter Graeca will be starred.

The story concerns the life of an American soldier, who, during the last World War suffered shell-shock causing him to lose memory of any of his life prior to that time. During evacuation operations necessitated by the present World War the ship on which he was sailing was torpedoed and that shock restored his memory.

Jay Jostyn will celebrate a year in the office of "Mr. District Attorney" when that program is heard over WSB at 8:30 o'clock tonight. Since "taking office" on the program he has put more than 100 "criminals" behind bars, broken up 20 "gangs" and exposed more than a dozen rackets. Tonight he will continue his efforts in behalf of mankind.

Loretta Young, lovely film actress, will be starred as Eleanor, mother of Virginia Dare, first white child born in the new world, in Paul Green's pageant "The Lost Colony" which will be the premiere program presentation of the "Cavalcade of America" over WSB at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

Gale Page and Jim Ameche, who for the past few months have been heard as stars in the Summer Playhouse program, will co-star on the new fall series of the Hollywood Playhouse program which starts over WSB at 7 o'clock tonight. For the first program they will appear in "Heaven" With a Barb-Wire Fence.

Things get pretty confused for a while in River's End when the noble-minded boys and girls of the community run the town for a day—and that's the germ of the plot of Jean Hersholt's "Dr. Christian" program over WGST at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The old professor, Kay Kyser, and his orchestra, featuring Ginny Simms, Harry Babbitt, Sully Mason and Ish Kibbible, will be heard in another of their popular "College of Musical Knowledge" programs over WSB at 9 o'clock tonight.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(P)—Federal Judge Alfred C. Cox today ordered Howard C. Hopson originally entered the observation ward September 20. Government and defense counsel agreed today that the former utilities head should submit to further examination by psychiatrists.

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 1.—(P)—Marion Hogan peeled out of the elevator he operates, touched the starting handle and the divided doors snapped on his neck.

For 20 minutes he gaped at a crowd gathered outside while a building engineer climbed into the elevator through a trap door at the top and removed the doors. Hogan emerged "unhurt but uncomfortable."

RICH'S

Rosemary Lane, Warner Brothers' actress, removes all traces of her make-up and then applies a finishing lotion which serves as a tonic to refresh and enliven her skin.

Normalize, Beautify Skin *With Soothing Facial Oils

By Winifred Ware.

When Grandmother was a girl, her beauty problems were few. She lived in conditions far different from our own. She was congratulated upon her rosy, peach-like skin which was brought to that stage of rosininess by clean, country air and sun. But in our machine age of today women are confronted with many beauty problems. Sooty, grimy cities, air filled with fumes, gases and smoke make it necessary to use effective and intelligent methods in caring for the skin.

One cosmetic manufacturer offers a new, complete line of preparations, recently put on the market in Atlanta. There are no creams at all in this line. Everything comes in bottles, oil emulsions for cleaning, toning and beautifying the skin; lotions to keep the skin in a healthy, lovely condition; and make-up. This manufacturer says that all of his products are made with a base of pure oils, very effective for lubricating the most delicate skins, particularly those subject to undue dryness. This complete treatment line includes day treatment, night treatment, and beautiful colors in make-up.

The maker of this new method advises the use of a lotion, applied with a cotton pad to prepare your face for cleansing. After removing the lotion, cleanse the skin with the rich cleansing emulsion. Follow that with a finishing lotion which serves as a tonic for toning the skin and to clear off the cleanser. The skin, alive and soft, is ready for make-up. Cream rouge and lipstick are applied. Then the face is covered freely and lightly with the powder, removing the excess with a soft brush or tissue.

There are rich facial oils to be used at night; to be left on for a limited time or overnight. These soften, relax, and lubricate the skin. The line includes too, a cucumber lotion which smells as fresh as fresh cucumbers; shampoos, oils for scalp treatments and bath oils. There are items for men too. Make-up comes in various shades to suit the individual coloring.

Women interested in charm and beauty as well as self-improvement will give this new cosmetic treatment a try. It's a valuable accessory to the beautifying of lovely women.

Call Winifred Ware at The Constitution for the names of the items in this line, which is reasonably priced. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for this information if you live out of town.

Buddy Rogers Disbands Orchestra To Stay in Hollywood With Mary

By Sheilah Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1.—Charles "Buddy" Rogers tells me (in the Twentieth Century-Fox Cafe) why he has returned to picture-making plus his plans for the future:

"For years my wife (Mary Pickford) has been urging me to settle down in Hollywood. 'We could do so much together,' she kept telling me. Well, I had the band, and it was doing very well, and I didn't like to take a chance. But you can have too much of anything—even something good. And after seven years of traveling around with the orchestra, I got tired—tired of hearing the blare of instruments and tired of moving around. Three weeks ago I disbanded my orchestra, and I'm back in Hollywood for good."

"If my picture career fails to jell," says Buddy (he has an important part in "Golden Hoofs" with Jane Withers), "I'm going to produce pictures with Mary. It's high time she got back into the producing field. She's been talking about it for a long time, but she just needs a little extra shove to make her do it." The first picture to be co-produced by Mr. and Mrs. Rogers is "The Bat," which James Roosevelt had optioned from Mary, but is now back in her possession. "We were all set to go—when this 'Golden Hoofs' came along." Something tells me Mary is hoping we will flop—as an actor.

John Barrymore has installed a skeet-shooting apparatus in his Tower road mansion, and the things to be shot at bear a remarkable likeness to one of his ex-nearest and ex-dearest relatives! Incidentally, John is telling intimates that it was mother-in-law trouble that finally broke down his umpteenth reconciliation with Elaine. Says John, "It was just too much. She'd go everywhere—and there was nowhere she wouldn't go."

Pity the poor film actress who is trying to have a normal friendship with a hunk! Dorothy Lamour was recently accused of planning an elopement with Gregson Bantz, the Clark Gable of the Los Angeles legal profession. Which brought Dorothy, "This is one thing I didn't want publicized," she tells me. "Why it's most embarrassing! How can you be friends with a man when you keep reading that you're married to him, and he has never mentioned marriage to you?"

The item that really annoyed Dot had them hiding under the pseudonym of Mr. and Mrs. Smith for the supposed elopement. "In the first place it would be ridiculous to use an alibi. In the second, it would be Smythe, not Smith!" In the third, I think she will soon become Mrs. Bantz.

Rather funny to watch John Carroll rehearsing his love-making to Mrs. William Powell in their Marx Brothers picture. Diana smokes cigarette after cigarette and looks utterly bored.

Overheard at Chasen's bar—Fredric March, Ralph Bellamy, Paul Lukas, and Walter Pidgeon—swapping limericks. Rosalind Russell has turned her charitable impulses in an Oriental direction. "In all this trouble in Europe, everyone's been forgetting the Chinese," says Roz, who is hard at work raising money for them. Jimmy Gleason and Edward Arnold were reminiscing about when they played the old Burbank theater, 30 years ago. Frank Capra added some details. "But you were too young to remember," said Gleason. "I sold newspapers outside the theater," said Capra.

The latest Deanna Durbin picture, "Spring Parade," is just about the most beautifully produced flicker of the season. But the story isn't quite as good as some of its predecessors. Those of you who have been waiting breathlessly to see Deanna kiss Robert Cummings are in for a disappointment. The kiss takes place behind a stone pillar . . .

MY DAY: Autumn Colors Beautify Landscape

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK, Monday.—Though it is a gray day today, I have just come in from a ride through the woods, where the colors are becoming more and more beautiful every day. Across our brook there are some trees that have turned a brilliant scarlet; next to them are some deep green pines and a yellow tree. They all reflect in the smooth surface of the water and make a most beautiful picture from the apiary where I write.

It is curious to be able to sit here and write about these quiet pleasures, and to have listened to the radio this morning with news of the nightly bombing in London with scarcely a respite before the morning raids began. The British seem to raid quite as often and as steadily, but their objectives do not seem to be entirely concentrated on a city like London, or, as reported this morning, such smaller cities as Aberdeen and Edinburgh.

There seems to be a difference in objectives. On the one hand, the Germans seem to be trying to break the morale of the people by attacking the places where humanity is concentrated. The R. A. F., on the other hand, seems to put more emphasis on attacking the oil supplies or factories and channel ports where shipping and supplies may be massed for an effort to land in England. I suppose the Germans make an effort to do this, too, but perhaps it is harder to find such scattered objectives.

The English are a curious people. They criticize each other and their government freely in times of peace. They are individualists as any people in the world, from the Duchess who dresses always as the fashions were in her youth, even though she may be 80 years old, to the woman who will run a London flat for you and try to run your life as well. She will apparently know all about you and yet never intrude, and will do her job according to its traditions, never doing more nor less than she thinks they require.

Yes, they are an individualistic people, and I don't think anything could draw them together more solidly and make them act as a unit more surely than continued attack. They have whatever it takes to stand up under long-drawn-out pressure.

Miss Thompson and I are leaving for a little jaunt into New England. Tonight we will be with our friends, Miss Esther Lape and Miss Elizabeth Reed, in Connecticut. Tomorrow you will hear from us somewhere along our way, but where we will lay our heads for the night is still on the lap of the gods.

Your Breathing Determines Efficiency of Circulation

By Dr. William Brady.

Many individuals with or without heart disease have poor circulation because they do not know how to breathe naturally.

Natural breathing aids the circulation. Natural breathing is belly breathing, and I mean belly. You can't breathe with the abdomen, for the abdomen is a cavity. You can breathe with the belly, for the belly is a muscular, elastic front wall of the abdomen. Of course the chief breathing muscle is the diaphragm, but most laymen are absurdly mistaken as to what and where the diaphragm is and how it works. Too often even laymen who have had a common school education derive their erratic knowledge of the diaphragm from the assumptions of dress-makers, coach fitters, masseurs and athletic coaches. In my files are the official directions of various physical trainers, swimming teachers, singing teachers and self-qualified "health" instructors which show that these "experts" themselves are sadly confused about the vital function of breathing.

All I can do, I suppose, is to remind readers that the diaphragm is a thin, membranous muscle in the form of an inverted soup plate stretched across the body cavity like a tarpaulin, partitioning the upper portion of the cavity or chest from the lower portion or abdomen. When the diaphragm contracts it presses down on stomach, liver and intestines, like a tarpaulin over a haystack, and of course this causes the belly to bulge or expand or inflate; at the same time it tends to produce negative air pressure within the chest, or "suction" if you prefer, and hence air enters the lungs. This action, contraction of the diaphragm, is the essential nature of inspiration, inhalation or breathing in.

Besides tending to produce negative air pressure within the chest cavity, contraction of the diaphragm tends to produce increased pressure within the abdominal cavity. This increased intra-abdominal pressure accompanying inspiration or taking a breath tends to drive the blood out of the veins in the abdomen. Physiologists estimate that nearly a quarter of the entire volume of blood in the body may stagnate, so to speak, in the vast network of veins in the abdomen, particularly in sedentary, inactive, flabby individuals and, in the opinion of a plodding practitioner who is a fair to middling lawn bowler, particularly those who do not breathe naturally. The contracting diaphragm forces some of this slacker blood along through the veins toward the heart; and at the same time the lowered intrathoracic pressure (within the chest cavity) favors the return of the blood through the great veins to the right auricle, whence it passes into the right ventricle and is pumped to the lungs for oxygenation. This action of the diaphragm (and minor muscles of breathing) is scientifically called the aspiratory function of the thorax. It may be considered as the booster pump action. Anyway it should be clear that the efficiency of your circulation, whether you have heart or artery disease or not, depends on how you breathe.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Mosquito Bites.
Never before saw such big and vicious mosquitoes as here on the cape, not even the famous Jersey breed. Help, help—if you have any remedy for the bites. (J. L. D.)

Answer: Gently rub with moist soap, or touch the puncture with a lump of indigo, or gently rub with naphthalene (mothball), or bathe itching skin with tablespoon household ammonia in cupful of water or with tablespoonful saleratus in cupful of water, or apply a drop of glycerin or peroxide to bite or touch once only with tincture of iodine.

Carrots with mint are an old English dish. These are cooked without water.

Carrots Have a New, Delicious Flavor When Cooked and Served With Mint

By Sally Saver.

Many of the vegetables contain vitamins and minerals of extremely great value to the human body. But some of these elements are water-soluble, that is, they dissolve into the water in which the vegetable is soaked or cooked. This is why it is so important to select fresh vegetables and to cook them quickly and in as little water as possible.

Fortunately for the health and well-being of the race, manufacturers of cooking utensils have developed pots and pans of sufficient weight and with close-fitting tops in which vegetables and other foods may be cooked without adding water. It would be well, if your cooking utensils are not of the up-to-date type, to look over the stock of newer ones. Vegetables, in addition to retaining their health-giving elements, actually taste better when cooked in little or no water.

Carrots are one of the vegetables rich in vitamins and minerals, which should be cooked in only the water remaining on them after washing. Here is an old English recipe for making the carrot dish as pictured:

Hot Carrots in Mint.

Take four or five fairly large carrots, scrape them clean and cut them in slices about a quarter of an inch thick. Put them in a heavy covered saucepan and cook over a low fire for 15 minutes. Add a generous lump of butter, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar and 1 tablespoon fresh mint leaves finely chopped. Cover again and cook slowly over a low flame until carrots are soft. Serve with more chopped mint, if desired. Questions about foods, recipes, cooking and serving will be answered by Sally Saver. Write or phone The Constitution or WA. 6565.

Mother: "Elsie is such a delicate child. We've always had to watch her so closely to see she doesn't get too tired."

Daughter: "I'm tired now, mamma."

Overanxiety about children's health may cause them to enjoy the extra attention which "being delicate" brings them.

Hillbilly Party in December Will Honor Jeanette Estes

• • • "GOOD OLE' MOUNTAIN MUSIC" will enliven the hillbilly party to be given on December 28 in compliment to lovely Jeanette Estes, attractive debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. Grady Estes, this affair to be one of the gayest of the Yuletide. Hostesses on the novel occasion will be Jeanette's sister, Mrs. George Vance, of Greenville, S. C., and her aunt, Mrs. Hugh Wilson, who will entertain at the Estes' rustic cabin in Rex, Ga.

The party will assemble members of the debutante coterie and their escorts, who will be requested to don overalls, gingham and blue denim suggestive of the "back-to-the-farm" motif. A real hillbilly band will be present to beat out mountain music, and Sally hears that a Christmas tree aglow with twinkling lights will be a feature of the decorations. There will be a number of pleasant surprises to delight guests, final plans to be announced later.

Belles and beaux, looking for all the world like happy hillbillies, will leave Atlanta by motor at 9 o'clock on the festive evening.

Jeanette will again be central figure on November 4 at the tea at which Anne Suttles, one of last season's fete buds, will entertain at her home in Morning-side.

Mrs. Walker Estes has planned a dinner party for December 17 for this popular blond debutante, this affair to take place either at the Rainbow Roof or the Spanish Room.

• • • AMONG prominent visitors in the city for the coming weekend will be Mr. and Mrs. Harwell G. Davis, of Birmingham, who will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Taylor Jr. at their home in Druid Hills. Mr. and Mrs. Davis have more than the usual interest in their visit, for Mr. Davis is president of Howard College and they will be enthusiastic spectators at Saturday's football game when Howard meets Georgia Tech in the first gridiron clash of the season at Grant Field.

Mrs. Davis is well known in Atlanta from former visits to Mrs. Taylor. She was among popular and attractive out-of-town guests attending grand opera here last spring, when she received a cordial welcome from a host of friends. She and Mr. Davis will be accompanied to Atlanta by their lovely sub-deb daughter, Betty Vail Davis, who will be the guest of Betty Taylor for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will entertain informally at a buffet supper on Saturday evening, inviting a group of the city's prominent educators to meet Mr. and Mrs. Davis.

• • • THEIR ENGAGEMENTS will be announced Sunday and both will marry belles from other cities. Two of Atlanta's popular bachelors, who have been standbys of the debutate set for several years, have succumbed to the charms of out-of-town belles, who, after their marriages, will become popular figures in society here.

One of the future brides lives in a near-by southern city, while the other hails from a western state. Both have visited here upon numerous occasions, and been admired figures at various social affairs.

The two future grooms-to-be are noted as excellent dancers, and both have entered the same business as their fathers. And to further add to the similarity of the forthcoming nuptials, the two weddings are set for the same day!

• • • SEVEN ATTRACTIVE members of Columbus society have just received coveted invitations to become pro-

Miss Colley Feted At Social Affairs

Miss Elizabeth Colley, prominent fall bride-elect, continues to be complimented at social affairs prior to her marriage on October 22 to Charles Shelton, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Atlanta.

On Friday Mrs. Jack Norris will fete Miss Colley at a bridge-luncheon at her home on Peachtree Battle avenue. On Saturday Mrs. Walter Taulman will be hostess at a breakfast at her home on Club drive honoring the future bride.

Other affairs planned in honor of the bride-to-be will be announced later.

Hugh Hodgson To Be Honored

In honor of Hugh Hodgson, whose piano recital on Friday evening will take place at 8 o'clock in the Bucher Scott gymnasium, Agnes Scott College will be hostess at a reception immediately afterwards.

Receiving in the Murphy Candler Student building will be C. W. Dieckmann, head of Agnes Scott's music department, and Mrs. Dieckmann; Mr. and Mrs. Hodgson, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Johnson.

Mr. Hodgson's recital will be the first of a series of weekly musicals, under the joint direction of the music departments of Agnes Scott College and the University of Georgia, to be presented at the college this season. It will also mark the christening of the college's new Steinway grand piano, intended for use in Presser Hall when the building is completed.

visional members of the Columbus Junior League. The new members include Katherine Averett, Almarine Slade, Janet Bowers, Elvie Scarbrough, Mrs. Thurston Crawford Jr., Mrs. Harold Buck and Mrs. Charlton Williams.

These popular new members will begin their training in welfare work early this month and on October 8 they will be honored at a luncheon at which the Columbus League will be hostess.

Sally understands that Katherine and Elvie are daughters of charter members of the League. And Janet has two sisters, Mary and Lucy Bowers, who are already prominently identified in the League.

MRS. MALON COURTS, President of Atlanta Junior League.

Open House Set for Friday At League's Headquarters

The first fall meeting of the Atlanta Junior League was held yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club with Mrs. Malon Courts presiding. Mrs. Courts announced that the league will hold "open house" in its new headquarters, 1430 West Peachtree street, between the hours of 10 and 12 o'clock on Friday.

Mrs. Courts stressed the policy of the Junior League with regard to war relief activities, pointing out that the board of the Atlanta League indorses the opinion of the Association of Junior Leagues of America that the most important work the leagues throughout the country can do in this crisis is the continuation of established volunteer services to their communities. The 200 active members of the league will be busy doing their regular volunteer work in Atlanta during the coming year. Mrs. Courts urged associate and sustaining members of the league to give as much of their time as possible to war relief work.

New transfers to the Atlanta League receiving a gracious welcome were Mrs. Robert E. Lorton, from Tulsa, Okla.; Mrs. Davant Lawton, also from Tulsa; Mrs. John B. Adams, from Augusta; Mrs. Louis Johnson, from Dayton, Ohio, and Mrs. Henry Jarrell, from Oakland, Cal. Mrs. Clement Kester, of Norfolk, Va., is a new interleague member.

Mrs. Daniel Conklin, first vice president and chairman of headquarters, reported on the work done at the new headquarters during the summer. Mrs. H. L. Holland Jr., house chairman, gave a report of the work of the Junior League members in redecorating and furnishing the house.

Mrs. Joseph Brennan, second vice president and chairman of the admissions committee, announced the following corrected list of the members of her committee: Mesdames Malon Courts, Daniel Conklin, Errell Hay, Charles Tuller, Robert Autrey, H. W. Beers Jr., J. Epps Brown, Col. Quitt Carter, Thomas Daniel Jr., Jack Glenn, Charles Hurt, Augustus Loyless, Henry Poer, Joseph Cooper, Murdock Equen, William G. Hamm, DeSales Harrison, Claude McGinnis Jr., Green Warren, Beverly DuBoise, Reginald Fleet, Glenn Ryman, Misses Beverly Bailey, Sarah Lewis and Jane McMillan.

Mrs. Brennan announced that the membership committee will meet Friday, October 11, and on Tuesday, October 13. All membership applications must be returned to Mrs. Brennan, 2507 Dellwood drive, before midnight October 7. Mrs. Brennan made the important announcement that the orientation course for the provisional members of the league will be conducted by Mrs. Helene Lipscomb, field secretary from national headquarters.

An important event of the meeting was the election of Mrs. Joseph W. Cooper Jr. to serve as the member at large from the Junior League on the newly organized board of trustees of the Junior League Speech school.

Mrs. Bonneau Ansley, chairman of arts and education, announced plans for a series of lectures on publicity to be given in November. Mrs. Howard Candler Jr., chairman of Children's Theatre, reported that the play, "Titian," will be given in November and will be grouped to various schools throughout the city. Tryouts will follow a meeting of the children's theater committee at the Driving Club today at 10 o'clock. Mrs. William G. Hamm, chairman of the Junior League speech school, gave a report of the school's work and progress in its new quarters. Mrs. G. F. Willis, chairman of the thyroid clinic, announced that her committee has been asked to prepare an exhibit of the work done during the past year at the thyroid clinic on exophthalmic patients for display at the meeting of the Southern Medical Association to be held in November in Louisville, Ky.

The chairman of civic affairs, Mrs. Frank Boston, announced that the league will supply its usual quota of interested volunteer workers to assist in the Community Fund drive which opens October 21. Mrs. Gus Ashcraft was named chairman of the drive under Mrs. Boston. Mrs. Richard Cannon, city editor, announced the first meeting of the Scribblers' Club will be held on Thursday at 10:30 o'clock, under the direction of Mrs. Minnie Hite Moody. Mrs. Hunter Bell was named chairman of the newly organized Junior League Camera Club.

Mrs. Nevil Reed, publicity chairman, reported the interesting information that the "Guide to Radio," published by the Association of Junior Leagues of America, gave the Atlanta League credit for outstanding work in all fields of league radio activity because of its work last year. Mrs. Berrien Moore, co-chairman of radio, announced that a dictation class will be held again this fall in connection with the Children's Theatre and radio committee work.

Report France Plans to Fortify Caribbean Isle

U. S. on Alert; F. D. R. Disputes French Claim of Approval.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—There were signs tonight that administration officials would look with suspicion on any French plan to strengthen the fortifications of Martinique, French island in the Caribbean.

President Roosevelt cautioned reporters not to print any stories saying that the United States and France were in agreement on fortification of the island.

The President and other officials emphasized that they had received no official word that the Vichy government intended to strengthen Martinique, but official quarters were interested in a news dispatch from Vichy saying that fortification would start in 1941.

The French ambassador, Gaston Henri-Haye, called on President Roosevelt today. He acknowledged afterward that he had brought up the fortification question, and said he was sure "there was nothing very important that separates the French viewpoint from the American."

Later, at Mr. Roosevelt's press conference, a reporter remarked that the ambassador had said France and the United States were in "substantial agreement." In skeptical tones, Mr. Roosevelt inquired whether Henri-Haye had said that and issued his caution against printing it.

The ambassador had taken pains to emphasize that he had no official word from his government that Martinique would be fortified.

Martinique is in the center of a chain of islands across the eastern approach to the Caribbean sea and the Panama Canal. England virtually has blockaded the island since a French warship carrying American planes bought by the French put in there after France's capitulation to Germany.

The meeting drew the largest crowd ever to attend the church since its organization in 1879.

Tax Books Opened But Not to Public

Fulton county's tax books opened officially yesterday but actually will not be opened to the tax-paying public for another 10 days or so, T. Earl Suttles, tax collector, announced.

The law requires the books to be open from October 1 to December 19 but due to delays in making up digests and setting the tax levy for 1940, Suttles was unable to make out all the tax bills by opening date. The delay was caused principally by the new "defaulters" digest which will contain about 30,000 new names. It is not complete yet.

State Spends $16,000,000 For Highways

Road Program Greatest in History for Last Nine Months.

By The Associated Press.

Georgia's expanded road-building program, its greatest in history, passed the $16,000,000 mark in the first nine months this year, State Highway Department officials estimated yesterday.

Formal contracts totaling $9,644,763, including 78 bridges and 694 miles of grading, surfacing or paving, were awarded by the department from January through September. Figures for the comparative period in 1939 were not available but highway attaches said the 1940 construction far exceeded last year's contract lettings.

September's contracts alone totaled $1,349,000, including the construction of 10 bridges.

The contract awards are in addition to about $4,500,000 worth of post road construction started in the nine-month period and approximately $2,000,000 worth of resurfacing and reconstruction by highway maintenance forces to repair roads. Post road construction is financed chiefly by the counties and the WPA.

This year's formal contracts also included 23 bridge culverts, two underpasses, numerous bridge approaches and widening of highways and bridges. Ten overhead bridges were included in the 78 spans.

Georgia's highway system has been increased from 11,200 to 11,600 miles since January; including about 6,000 miles of road with some form of paving, officials declared.

Deen Lists $1,385 Campaign Costs

Braswell Deen, former state welfare director, who entered the Governor's race and then withdrew two weeks later because of the Hatch act, spent $1,385.30 during the short time he was a candidate, according to an expense account filed yesterday with the comptroller general.

All of the money, Deen said, was from his own funds or money borrowed by him to be repaid as a loan.

Included in the expenditures was $116 for newspaper advertising, $250 radio advertising, $338 amplifying equipment, $160 printing and stationery, $133 traveling expenses.

Tigers To Send Buck Newsom After World Series Opener Today

Duke and Vols In Rose Bowl Consolation Tilt

Wade Never Beat Neyland at Knoxville, Even While at 'Bama.

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Anyone who thinks that absence makes heart grow fonder, or that time heals all wounds, might take a squint at the tropical disturbances centered around the campuses of Duke and Tennessee Universities.

After foregoing each other's company for two years, the Blue Devils and the Vols have made a date in Knoxville Saturday to renew a football feud which makes that little fracas between the Hatfields and the McCoy's look like a sorority initiation.

The feud actually is based on the rivalry of two of the south's greatest coaches, Wallace Wade of

Two Vol Wingmen May Miss Duke Go

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Tennessee's Vol wingmen may be without the services of their first and second-string right ends when they march against the Duke Blue Devils Saturday.

Emil Hust, of Cleveland, Ohio, wingman on the No. 2 team, suffered torn ligaments in his right shoulder today when he tackled a freshman during a rough scrimmage.

"Hust probably will be lost to us for six weeks or two months. Trainer Mickey O'Brien said after examining the shoulder.

Ed Cifers, varsity end, strained the achilles tendon in his heel yesterday and may not be able to start against Duke.

Duke and his No. 1 Jonah, Bob Neyland of Tennessee. It's no secret that the Duke thin man would rather whip Major Bob than to come out with bingo in Pasadena on New Year's.

The fans apparently consider the game a natural, for all 33,000 seats in the Tennessee stadium have been sold out for weeks.

CONSOLATION GAME. The game already is being billed as the Rose Bowl consolation, and this bowl business explains why Duke and Tennessee have not grown fonder in absence.

In 1938, the first year that the schools decided they could get along without each other very well, both teams were undefeated but Duke was uncared upon and got the bowl bid.

Many Tennessee supporters, together with some sports writers of the west coast, complained the Devils had played a pushover schedule, and allowed a howl Texas Christian or Tennessee would have been a better selection.

And when Duke lost to Southern Cal in Pasadena, even though the winning touchdown came in the last minute of play, there were those at Knoxville who said "I told you so."

The situation was reversed last year. Duke supporters admitted that their team was out of the Rose Bowl picture, because of a one-point defeat by Pittsburgh, but declared Tennessee had played an easy schedule. They also let it be known that in their opinion, if Duke had played Tennessee, the Vols would have spent the Christmas holidays at home.

UNBEATEN AT KNOXVILLE. When Tennessee was whipped by Southern Cal, Duke fans admitted none too reluctantly that they were not exactly flabbergasted.

Wade never has defeated Neyland at Knoxville, even while Wade was coaching at Alabama. Neyland defeated Wade once at Alabama but never has whipped him in Duke stadium. In a nine-game series between the coaches, Neyland won six, lost two and tied one.

One of the two worst beatings Wade ever received was administered by Major Bob. That was in 1931, Wade's first year at Duke, and the score was 25-2. (The other severe beating was in 1923, when Syracuse beat Wade's Alabama team, 23-0.)

A Wade-coached Duke team pinned a good licking on Tennessee in 1935. The score was 19-6.

You may remember that 1935 was the year Neyland was on leave from Tennessee.

Southeastern Ahead Of Southern Elevens.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Football teams of the Southeastern Conference have rolled up a big margin of victories over the older Southern since their separation eight years ago, their Southeastern winning 59 and tying three of 95 inter-loop contests played.

The renewal on Saturday of the colorful Duke-Tennessee series again has focussed attention on the keen rivalry between the two strong Dixie circuits and a look at the files today showed that although the Southern still is lagging behind in the won-lost column, it has been gaining ground gradually on the 13 schools which preceded to form the Southeastern. Last year's records reveal that the Southeastern won eight, tied one and lost five tilts with Southern Conference clubs. Back in 1933, the first season after the formation of the Southeastern, the new loop captured 13, lost six and tied one contest with their former brethren.

TIGERS KID LOMBARDI—Still friends yesterday before the big battle begins at noon, these members of the Tiger baseball club, American League champions, took time before yesterday's practice to swap jokes with big

Cincinnati Expected To Start Derringer

Greenberg Belts Four Over Fence in Batting Practice; Lombardi, Frey May Not Play.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Big, blatant Buck Newsom of the Detroit Tigers will be in the firing box tomorrow in the first game of the World Series, with equally big Paul Derringer probably doing the rifle work for the Cincinnati Reds.

Fans already were camping outside the bleacher entrance to Crosley Field tonight to make sure of seeing the spectacle that starts at 12:30 (Atlanta time) tomorrow, but the proximity of the first battle did not disturb Manager Will McKechnie. The secretive Scot kept his starting lineup locked up in his mind.

But the hopes of the crippled National League champions for giving the American League its first squelching since 1935 were bound up in Derringer, and no one had any doubt that he would get the call, if indeed McKechnie had not already told him.

START AT 12:30. Aside from the starting time, which is fixed by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, and the size of the crowd, 33,000, which is controlled by the structural capacity of the park, almost every aspect of baseball's great autumn classic was surrounded by minor mysteries.

The Tigers were rated as betting favorites with bookmakers reported quoting 7 to 10 against their winning and even money on the Reds. But Tiger Manager Del Baker, while definitely naming Newsom for the important opening assignment, would not decide definitely on a rightfielder.

Baker indicated Billy Sullivan, a left-handed batter, would probably catch Newsom. Birdie Tebbetts likely will handle the other Detroit hurlers.

FOX OR CAMPBELL. The choice in right field lay between the veteran Pete Fox, a right-handed hitter, and Bruce Campbell, a portsider. Baker said he might not decide on this until tomorrow.

He announced the following order, however: Dick Bartell, shortstop; Barney McCosky, center field; Charley Gehringer, second base; Hank Greenberg, left field; Rudy York, first base; Campbell, right field; Pinky Higgins, third base; Billy Sullivan, catcher, and Newsom, pitcher.

He said that if Fox played Higgins would bat ahead of Fox. McKechnie didn't know whether the injured catcher, Ernie Lombardi, and Second Baseman Lonnie Frey would be able to go and the best guess was that they could not. The weather forecast was fair and cool, but the clouds came scuttling over the city today.

AGAIN ON THE EDGE OF A CORNFIELD IN GEORGIA, Oct. 1.—The two fine pick-up boys who traveled with us over the many acres of land owned by Dr. Charles Floyd know their arithmetic. At lunch time Kenneth Rogers and this correspondent cheerfully took credit for bringing down two-thirds of all the

"There must of been only three shot then," the pick-up boys chorused. I don't suppose two boys ever had more enjoyment.

When they aren't going to school, they get 55 cents for every 100 pounds of cotton they pick. Well, sir, one must bend his back to pick 100 pounds between sunup and first dark.

Today the boys made the equivalent of 200 or more pounds of cotton and they only had to bend their backs twice. We tramped many a mile over the fields of cotton, the cornfields and through likely piney woods, but it amounted only to so much exercise.

We hunted in the vicinity of Loganville. Dr. Charles Floyd annually stages an all-day shoot and barbecue for his friends.

No one really cares whether or not the dove abound because Jesse Dial, of Oxford, Ga., does something with lamb and pork. He cooks it over a slow-burning oak fire for some 16 hours. And there is the great iron kettle of Brunswick stew.

Nothing seems very important when Jesse Dial completes his work at the pits. So there aren't many doves. So what? There is Oscar Coe to recite. And Mrs. J. T. Floyd entertaining on the accordion.

Since the doves are scarce, there is no loud banging of shotguns to disturb the peace and quiet of the day. No one really cares.

Daybreak It is worth getting up for some time to watch the dawning of a new day. Take today, for instance. We arrived at the Floyd camp at 4 a. m. It was a mistake to do so because Jesse Dial was at work at the pits.

It would not have been so difficult had we skipped the pits until noon. There is something haunting about slabs of lamb and beef and pork cooking over an open log fire at early hours. It is difficult to dismiss from one's thoughts as the morning hours wear on.

Anyway, there was a fox hunt in progress. Modern fox hunters ride in cars along the country roads and listen to the music of the hounds. We saw no reason to argue with the modern methods.

And then, as a sort of official way to start the annual dove shoot, Dr. Floyd stopped us on a rise and we watched the sun come up.

It was damp and glistening in the fields and off in the distance a purple haze shrouded the lonesome pines. There had been a stir of life in the countryside before, but work began when the big, red ball rapidly rose from behind the trees.

There is no glare to the sun as it first comes up. It turns to a fiery glare as it mounts in the sky. Things are always different in the full light of day.

It removes much of the mystery and glamour of the countryside. There is something remotely stirring about the far-away barking of dogs, the crowing of roosters and the flickering lights in the farm houses.

Doyal May Use Cox at Center And Fullback

Purples in Poor Shape for Savannah; Marist Plays Aggies.

BY JOHN MARTIN.

Shorty Doyal dug down for his deepest base moan yesterday and came up with a sad tale of injuries.

The Boys' High coach could find nothing to be cheerful over. Several regulars are out of practice with minor injuries and ailments and there is little doubt that the Purples will move against the huge Savannah team here Friday night below normal strength.

Pig DeFreese was confined with laryngitis yesterday and Tackle Ralph Carroll is nursing a broken collarbone. Added to this is Bill Bailey's bad knee. Bailey, key man in the Purple attack, suffered a knee injury in the Columbus game last week. Fullback Magbe likewise is a member of the crippled clan.

His absence inspired Doyal to move Jake Cox, a one-time halfback, to fullback as understudy to Al Bernman. Cox will divide his time between this job and his regular post at guard.

Doyal and Dwight Keith fear the Geechiez and believe that this very game might decide the G. I. A. A. title. A scouting report of the Marist game, which Savannah won, 12-6, indicates that the Geechiez have a top-notch team which will outweigh Boys' High 12 pounds to the man.

Boys' High was not the only team arguing with the injury jinx yesterday. Commercial was without its head coach, Rufus Godwin was still in bed with a light attack of flu. However, he hopes to return to duty this afternoon.

The Typists will wind up work at Grant park for their clash Thursday night with Gainesville's Red Elephants at Ponce de Leon park. This will be a first line N. G. I. C. encounter and should produce a lot of fireworks.

Gainesville will bring John Evans, the big fullback who scored over 160 points last year. And in addition, Oliver Hunnicutt, the old Georgia speedster, will make his debut here as a coach.

The Marist-Monroe tilt, originally scheduled for Thursday night at Ponce de Leon Park, conflicted with the Commercial-Gainesville clash, so the Aggies and Cadets will meet Thursday night at 8 o'clock on the North Fulton field.

Captain Nowell Stars In Best Bulldog Drill

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 1.—Alternate Captain Bobby Nowell took plenty of praise to the showers with him following a long offensive and defensive scrimmage for the Georgia Bulldogs this afternoon.

Nowell was far and away the outstanding man on the field, and his vicious tackling on defense was the finest of the year. He was blocking hard when the varsity had the ball, too.

Coach Wallace Butts was loud in his praise of the senior blocking back from Monroe. He sent the stumpy blond to the showers long before the workout was over as a reward for his brilliant performance.

ONE OF BEST. Today's drill was one of the best Georgia has had this year. There was plenty of pepper. Blocking and tackling was sharper than it has been, and pass defense showed a marked improvement.

The Bulldog coaches didn't waste a minute all afternoon. While one group worked on defense against running plays, Backfield Coach Bill Hartman took another set of backs to the other end of the field and threw passes by the dozens at them. Even with Hartman doing the tossing there was a sharp decrease in the number of completions.

Coach Butts announced after practice he would start the same lineup against South Carolina Saturday in Columbia as opened the game against Oglethorpe last week in Atlanta.

NO CHANGES. Many observers had believed there would be some changes, but the Bulldog mentor put an end to speculation with the announcement that George Foschner and James Skipworth would be at ends; Wyatt Posey and Gene Elenson, tackles; Walter Ruark and C. B. Guest, guards; Tommy Witt, center; Bobby Nowell, blocking back; Lamar Davis, wingback; Heyward Allen, tailback, and Cliff Kimsey, fullback.

Kimsey was another boy who looked good this afternoon. His performance was encouraging for more reasons than one, but chiefly because he may have to go 60 minutes against the Gamecocks.

Red Keuper is still limping with a Charley horse, and the Bulldog coaches won't use him if it is possible to do otherwise. He'll be ready to go, but another blow on the bruised muscle might cause him to miss plenty of time later on.

With Keuper out, Kimsey and Lewis Woodruff will have to do all the work at fullback. Spike Nelson, the other member of the squad playing that post, has a sprained ankle and will be out indefinitely.

Wednesday work will be devoted chiefly to dummy scrimmaging and work on defense against both passes and running plays.

Frankie Sinkwich notified the coaches today he would arrive in Athens Thursday night, which means he will have only one day to work the kinks out of his legs after the long ride from his home in Youngstown, Ohio, where he was called by the accidental death of an uncle in a wreck Sunday.

Sinkwich will see some service against South Carolina, but will be far from his top form.

Griffin Preparing For Richardson 11

GRiffin, Ga., Oct. 1.—Coach L. A. Jackson and his Griffin High football squad began work yesterday for their forthcoming Friday night test against the strong Richardson High eleven of College Park. Griffin defeated Forsyth here last Friday night, 20 to 0.

The high school team came out of the opening game in good physical condition, and will face Richardson at full strength.

The game will be played at Lightfoot Park here at 7:30 Friday night.

Frick Believes And Hopes Reds Win Big Series

Landis Refuses To Comment; Connie Mack Sees Hard Fight.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 1.—(AP)—What they say about this World Series, beginning tomorrow:

Ford Frick, president of the National League: "I hope we win and I think we will."

Schoolboy Rowe, scheduled to start one of the first two games for the Detroit Tigers: "I'm known as the most speechless man in baseball. All the same, I think it will be a damn good series and I know we'll give the Cincinnati Reds all they want in the way of a baseball game."

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball: "I don't have opinions on things of this kind. Even if I did, I'm too busy shaving now."

Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia Athletics: "This is a hard series to predict. Both teams look like they are evenly matched. The Reds have the edge on pitching and the Tigers have the edge in hitting. With the breaks, either team can win."

Branch Rickey, of the St. Louis Cardinals: "Those Tigers are going to have their hands full trying to beat the Reds' pitching staff."

Manager Bill McKee, of the Reds: "I don't care to make any predictions other than to say we'll give the Tigers the best we've got."

Dick Bartell, Tiger shortstop, who knows Cincinnati pitching from years in the National League: "We have what it takes. There isn't any kind of pitching going to stop us."

Lundeen Is Named Kennel Club Head

At a regular meeting of the Atlanta Kennel Club last night John Lundeen was elected president of the club by a unanimous vote. Lundeen succeeds H. Morgan Milner, who was forced to resign when he was transferred out of the city.

The new president is the owner of the Kalmars Kennels, located near Stone Mountain. His is one of the finest kennels of Great Danes in the country. Lundeen, who has been breeding Great Danes for 20 years, has 33 of the big fellows at present.

ISN'T THIS THE LIMIT?—No, dearie, it is not the bag limit. And yet it is the limit. The dove being held up by Dr. George Myshrrall is one of three killed during the morning half of a shoot at Loganville yesterday. Left to right, are Host Charles Floyd, Jack Green, Dr. Myshrrall and T. L. Hoshall, all of Atlanta, and "Pat," cocker spaniel owned by Dr. Walter C. Goodpasture, Atlanta. Pat looks disgusted. There was no retrieving to be done yesterday.

Dr. Floyd Host To Sportsmen At Dove Shoot

LOGANVILLE, Ga., Oct. 1.—Dr. Charles Floyd was host to a large party of friends in the annual dove shoot which is staged each opening day.

Among the guests were Dr. George Myshrrall, Dr. J. T. Floyd, Colonel Marvin G. Russell, Dr. T. C. Davidson, Dr. J. C. (Red) Ivey, Dr. J. R. Childs, Dr. Walter C. Goodpasture, John S. Smith, J. B. Camp, D. D. Still, Jack Green and T. L. Hoshall.

A scarcity of dove, which prevailed at most shoots on opening day, prevented any of the shooters from getting more than two or three birds.

This was secondary, however. Jesse Dial, of Oxford, cooked the barbecue and Brunswick stew; Oscar Coe entertained, and Mrs. J. T. Floyd played the accordion. The delightful food and unexcelled entertainment made up for the lack of the ammunition company's pets.

Heidacher, Larned In Candler Finals

Finals in the first Candler Park Women's Golf Club championship are scheduled today. Miss Janis Heidacher will meet Mrs. Mark Larned for the title. Other pairings:

Championship consolation—Mrs. H. S. Rawlings vs. Mrs. Charles Swann. First flight—Mrs. T. A. Branch vs. Mrs. Roger Martin. First flight consolation—Mrs. T. R. Staton vs. Mrs. Miles Metzger. For players not in the finals a special competition will be held.

Kentucky Gridders Off To Join Army

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 1.—(AP) The University of Kentucky football squad dropped a decision today to an unscheduled and unexpected opponent—Uncle Sam's army—when Ed Ghoson, 188-pound senior end from Paducah, was notified to report for flying training early next month.

The Wildcat injury list otherwise balanced itself as Joe Bailey, 200-pound center from Paducah, returned to scrimmage practice and Dutch Ishmael, 195-pound fullback from Pikeville, suffered an ankle blood vessel rupture in the contact work.

Grady Black, Son Win at Piedmont

Grady Black Sr. and Grady Black Jr. pulled a sensational rally to win the men's doubles feature match in last night's opening round of the Piedmont Driving Club's badminton tournament. The father-son combine lost the first set, 15-6, to Sam McDaniel and Robert Watkins, but came back strong to take the last two, 18-17, 15-6.

Other matches are scheduled for tonight, beginning at 8 o'clock. Men's Doubles—Hunter Bell and Dr. Marvin Mitchell defeated Edwin Peoples and Frank Walsh, 15-2, 15-2. Norris Broyles and Dr. Harry Crosswell defeated Stockton Broome and Al Wall, 15-4, 15-2.

Mixed Doubles—Mr. and Mrs. Stockton Broome defeated Mr. and Mrs. Norris Broyles, 15-4, 15-10.

Georgia Teams Reach Four-Ball Semi-Finals

By AL SHARP.

Both Georgia teams won their matches yesterday and advanced to the semifinals of the Southern States Four-Ball Golf tournament. Tommy Barnes and Gene Gaillard, of Atlanta, played 9-under-par golf over the East Lake No. 1 course to beat George Helm and John Steier, of Kentucky, 7 and 6. Jennings Gordon, state champion from Rome, and Johnny Oliver, of Valdosta, furnished the closest match of the day as they turned back Harold Hall and Preston Hennies, of South Carolina, 3 and 2. The Georgians were 3 under par.

Bobby Dunkelberger, who won the tourney last year with Skip Alexander as his partner, and Jack Garrett, of North Carolina, set back Marshall Balentine and George McCallister, of South Carolina, 10 and 8. This winning combination, which will face Barnes and Gaillard in one of today's matches, was 11 under par for the 28 holes.

Crawford Rainwater and Bill Stark, who represent close to quarter of a ton of Florida golfers, defeated Polly Boyd and Johnny Grant, of Tennessee, 10 and 8. The Floridians were 11 under par for the route. The Florida team will meet Gordon and Oliver in the other 36-hole match, starting at 9 o'clock this morning.

The 9-under-par scoring of the Barnes-Gaillard team put them 20 under par for the two days of play in which they have shot 66 holes. Barnes was 10 under par for the two days, having a 69 in the morning and a 4-under-par tally for the 12 holes played in the afternoon round. Gaillard was 3 under par for the two days of shooting. Most remarkable part about the team's work, however, was the fact that it has not chalked up a bogey in 66 holes. In other words, it was par or better on every hole.

Dunkelberger shot a 69 and Garrett a 68, as they went 7 under par to take a long lead over the South Carolina team in the morning.

Rainwater had a 32 on the first nine in the afternoon, in spite of a shot into the water at the ninth hole. Stark had a 33 on the same nine, and the team was 7 under par for the last 10 holes.

Oliver and Gordon, with birdies at the 15th and 16th holes, respectively, closed out Hall and Hennies, who came back strong after being 2 down at lunch time.

ALL IN THE GAME

life because the dove seem to be one with Ninevah and last winter's freeze.

Decrease in Game Seriously, there was very little hunting around this section today. It was generally understood that there was very little hunting to be had.

Maybe it is because of last winter's freeze. Or it might be that the careless hunters, those who slaughter the birds on baited fields, are responsible. Whatever it is, there's a real scarcity of dove.

After a day in the fields it seems somewhat ironic that the bag limit has been reduced. Had the bag limit been only six, the combined efforts of a party of 15 shooters here today would have just made it.

The answer may lie in legalized baited field shoots. I mean supervised shoots, of course.

Let the parties planning to have a baited field shoot notify the state game department. And then let the state game department send their field forces in to check the bags. Lower the present limit on doves, if necessary, but at least make it worth a hunter's time and money to hunt.

There aren't shoots every day like the one today. There are other days when one likes to have a bird or three to show for the time spent in the fields.

At the moment I can't think of one good argument against regulated baited field dove shoots.

The Doctor Dr. George Myshrrall, the setter man, came out of hibernation today. At the crack of dawn on every first day of the hunting season Dr. Myshrrall may be expected.

He gets his chief recreation out of hunting and the field trials. Never will forget an incident which occurred at a hunt a couple of years ago.

Dr. Myshrrall had sent his setter dog into Canada for training and was pepped up over the prospects. This day on the hunt things hadn't gone so well. Bob Sealy's dog had been finding one covey after another, but the Myshrrall setter was lagging back.

Finally, Sealy turned to Doc Myshrrall after his dog had retrieved once again and said: "Doc, want to let your dog smell of the bird?"

"Sure," answered Doc Myshrrall, "let the blankety-blank smell of it. I don't think he ever smelled one before!"

Alex Will Skip Rough Session Slated Today

Injured Men Number 6; Ends and Wingbacks Getting Scarce.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Two more men were injured in yesterday's Tech scrimmage, bringing the total lost for Saturday's game with Howard College to six and causing Head Coach W. A. Alexander to call off today's scheduled rough session.

Paul Sprayberry, end, and Bobby Beers, wingback, are the new additions to the hospital list. Sprayberry is definitely lost with a dislocated elbow and Beers is unlikely to see action because of a badly broken nose.

The new injuries place the Yellow Jacket coaches in a rather embarrassing position for ends and wingbacks. Playable men at the flanks are George Webb, Harry Arthur, Charlie Burroughs and Jack Marshall. Sprayberry, Rob Ison and Paul Page are the cripples. Webb and Arthur have minor injuries.

At wingback only two inexperienced men are available. Jack Nettles and Sophomore Jack Hancock will have to carry the burden against the Bulldogs. In addition to Beers, both Bobby Pair and Joe Bartlett will watch from the sidelines. Both Hancock and Nettles have minor injuries which slow them down considerably.

Here is the alarming situation in regard to the season's opening game:

Available, but having minor injuries—Webb and Arthur, ends; Dyke, tackle; Nettles and Hancock, wingbacks.

Unavailable—Ison, Page and Sprayberry, ends; Carden, tackle; Pair and Bartlett, wingbacks.

Possible, but not probable participant—Beers.

The loss of Sprayberry and Beers is a serious blow to the Jackets. Sprayberry had taken over the right end berth while Webb was hurt and the lanky ex-Monroe Aggie was giving Webb a battle for the first team berth.

Beers, moved to wingback after Pair's injury, was sure to start the game.

The injuries marred an otherwise good scrimmage. The first team varsity line, consisting of Sprayberry and Arthur, ends; Dyke and Mueth, tackles; Aderhold and Cavette, guards; and Wright, center, completely smothered Howard plays as run by the Red Devils.

Aderhold spent most of his time in the Red backfield, smearing plays before they got started. Mueth and Dyke flashed their best form of the season and Cavette and Wright tackled viciously backing up the line.

However, the varsity's pass defense was not so hot and the Red shirts completed several tosses for good gains.

The scrimmage was not devoted entirely to defense. Jack Bradford, who took over at fullback when Roy Goree slightly twisted his ankle, ran like a mad bull on line plungers and emerged the outstanding ball carrier of the day. However, he is extremely green on defense and will have to have a lot of work before becoming a dependable man.

Webb made several fine catches of passes and Nettles ran well for the varsity.

Coach Alex called off today's scrimmage because of the injuries. "I'm afraid to try it again," he said. "If another wingback or end was hurt, I don't know what we would do."

Crackers Lose Pep Young to Brooklyn Dodgers in Draft

CINCINNATI, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Thirteen minor league players, including Pitcher Bill Swift and Infielder Pep Young, former members of the Pittsburgh Pirates, were drafted by the major leagues tonight.

The Brooklyn Dodgers was the only club to conscript more than one player, taking three. They were Young, who was released to Atlanta of the Southern Association just yesterday; Swift, who spent the season at St. Paul in the American Association; and Thompson Livingston, a catcher for Springfield, Mass., in the Eastern League.

Young went to Atlanta as part payment for Shortstop Alf Anderson. Thus, in addition to $15,000 cash paid for Anderson, the Crackers got another $6,000 for Young—that being the Southern League draft price.

The New York Giants drafted Pitcher Ace Adams, of Nashville, in the Southern Association.

The Cleveland Indians named Murray Howell, outfielder for Baltimore in the International.

Sharp SHOOTIN'

WANDERING AROUND IN GOLF CIRCLES.

Golfers who have tested the Ponte Vedra layout are still wondering how Dick Van Kleeck, of Jacksonville, could put together a record 63 at the resort. . . . Van Kleeck, who was here for the Southern States Four-Ball tournament, did it a few weeks ago with a 33 and a 30. . . . The same course, remember, where players who shot 162s played off for places in the championship division of the Southern Amateur a couple of years ago. . . . Golf fans were interested to learn that Jimmy Thomson, the long driver, will be visiting Georgia and Alabama courses for exhibitions soon. . . . With the long hitting, Thompson has a smile that goes a long way.

Maryland Lifts Welter Crown Off Armstrong

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Asserting that it was "time to stop the tying of boxers and smash monopolies," the Maryland state boxing commission declared Henry Armstrong's welterweight championship vacant today.

Stanley Scherr, commission chairman, said the move was directed against the "New York boxing monopoly" in general, and that by taking this stand Maryland became the first state to oppose the "powers that be."

The action cannot be declared, after he had been advised by Eddie Mead, Armstrong's manager, that the titleholder could not fight anywhere without the consent of Promoter Mike Jacobs, of New York.

Efforts had been made to match Armstrong, Los Angeles Negro, with the winner of the October 14 bout here between Louis (Kid) Cocco, of New Haven, Conn., and Izzy Janazzo, of New York.

fense was not so hot and the Red shirts completed several tosses for good gains.

The scrimmage was not devoted entirely to defense. Jack Bradford, who took over at fullback when Roy Goree slightly twisted his ankle, ran like a mad bull on line plungers and emerged the outstanding ball carrier of the day. However, he is extremely green on defense and will have to have a lot of work before becoming a dependable man.

Webb made several fine catches of passes and Nettles ran well for the varsity.

Coach Alex called off today's scrimmage because of the injuries. "I'm afraid to try it again," he said. "If another wingback or end was hurt, I don't know what we would do."

Most of the leading golf pros have their "meal tickets" insured. Horton Smith tells me. . . . They carry policies ranging from $5,000 to $20,000 on their hands and feet, legs and arms, etc. . . . Horton has four such policies which cover various injuries. . . . The United States Golf Association is putting out a booklet explaining the functions of its various committees, why it was formed and so forth. . . . It was worthwhile and may open a lot of writers' eyes. . . . Youngest team in the southern states four-ball must be Bobby Dunkelberger, 20, and Jack Garrett, 22, of North Carolina. . . . Polly Boyd and John Grant, of Tennessee, claim to be the real veterans.

ENID WINS. SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The Enid, Okla., champions won the semi-pro baseball "world championship" today by defeating Guayama, Puerto Rico's champions, 7 to 5, in the seventh and final game of their series. Enid won the National Semi-pro Baseball Congress tournament in the United States.

Glenn Cunningham, who has gone in for longer distances, probably will run in the Sugar Bowl two-miler.

Walter E. Lawson, top average bowler of the city for last season, hit his stride Monday with a big series of 420, for his first "400" or better set of the season, while his team was winning a pair of games.

Wayne Harper, who is building up a powerful average in the high and scoring City League, won his single game honors in the league with a big game of 162.

H. B. Merriman's 322 set and Bullock's high single game of 117 won prizes in the Commercial League for weekly high scores.

Hurling of Eggs At Willie Hit By Roosevelt

Two Incidents Are Condemned as Thoroughly Reprehensible.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—(P)—Two incidents which occurred during Wendell Willkie's tour of Michigan—the dropping of a waste basket from a high window in Detroit and the throwing of eggs in Pontiac—were condemned by President Roosevelt today as thoroughly reprehensible.

Talking to reporters at his press conference, Mr. Roosevelt said he imagined that laws of most states classified such deeds as assaults and crimes.

A reporter had asked the President whether he had read in newspapers that a "presidential candidate had been subjected to harsh treatment in Michigan."

Nazis Resigned To Winter-Long War on Britain

Hunger Will Break British Resistance.

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—(UP)—The German high command tacitly admitted tonight that it is resigned to a winter-long siege of Britain with "cyclical" air assaults, but claimed that hunger will stalk among the British people to break down their resistance.

A spokesman of the high command's economic section asserted, as official reports told of punishing bombing attacks on the London area and an airdrome on the west coast of Scotland, that "General Hunger will march against England herself."

The high command's economic spokesman said that the German aerial blockade of the British Isles this winter will tighten up on millions of Britons the grip of hunger, "which the British had hoped would be the result of their blockade," he asserted.

The outlook for the British is a gloomy one, he said, but Germany is well prepared "even if we have a second severe winter."

Army Recalls Ayres, Critic of Defense Pace

Economist To Resume World War Job as Statistical Chief.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 1.—(P)—Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, who recently declared preparedness was "decidedly leisurely" compared with 1917, got a chance today to help speed things up.

The army recalled the Cleveland bachelor economist to his World War position as chief statistical officer. Colonel Ayres, 61, is one of the highest ranking reserve officers to be ordered back to active duty.

Colonel Ayres said he would work "almost entirely on the progress of procurement under 'contracts' when he returns to duty in Washington about October 7."

"You have to do what you can to help out in this emergency," he remarked.

The Cleveland Trust Company, whose business bulletin Colonel Ayres has edited since he joined the bank as vice president in 1920, gave him a leave of absence.

Record Is Set For Marriage License Sales

343 Issued in Fulton in September, Highest in History.

The largest September marriage license record in the history of Fulton county was set last month, C. C. Mason, chief clerk of the county ordinary, announced yesterday.

The increase was noted about 10 days ago, when a great many Negro couples applied for license to wed, attaches of the office said. There was a total of 343 licenses issued, this being the highest since the county ordinary record, but the total was below the figure for August, 1940, when 347 permits were issued. A year ago, only 265 licenses were issued in September.

Mason said he thought "war fever" was largely responsible for the increase but pointed out the rush has been nothing like the demand in eastern and northern cities.

A spokesman of the high command's economic section asserted, as official reports told of punishing bombing attacks on the London area and an airdrome on the west coast of Scotland, that "General Hunger will march against England herself."

16 More Men Recommended To Fight Fire

Styron Told To Select 45 Applicants for Training.

The Atlanta Board of Firemen's last night voted unanimously to ask for the addition of 16 firemen for the department, and at the same time instructed Fire Chief C. C. Styron to select 45 from applicants already on file to take a training course beginning within the next 30 days.

Action on the new men to bolster the firefighting personnel of the department was taken after representatives of the firefighters' local filed the request, pointing out that the recommendations already have been made by the Southeastern Board of Fire Underwriters.

C. E. Roach, fireman stationed at Buckhead, was suspended for 90 days after he entered a plea of conditional unemployment as a fireman, and L. E. Brown resigned under the same charges.

Former Captain John Mayfield, ousted from the department in 1935 when his wife, Mrs. Lucille Mayfield, was acquitted of slaying "the other woman," made another bid for reinstatement, but a motion by Councilman Charles L. Chosewood, board member, to review the case was withdrawn by the author when it appeared it would not receive a second.

The board voted to join in presentation to council Monday a resolution granting all municipal employees military leaves of absence and to protect their seniority during such service. Judge Frank Hooper, assistant city attorney, informed the board that a charter amendment will be required in the case of firemen and possibly some other divisions, and preparations are being made to pass the necessary legislation at the January session of the Georgia assembly.

The Army IN GEORGIA

"Atlanta's Own," the 179th Field Artillery of the Georgia National Guard, will receive its year of training at Camp Blanding, Fla., when it is called to active duty later in the year.

This was announced yesterday by the War Department in an official publication which also described the training destinations of other Georgia Guard units.

The Atlanta regiment, commanded by Colonel Thomas L. Alexander, will be recruited up to a war strength of 69 officers and 1,368 men. At Camp Blanding it will be trained in the use of 155-millimeter guns.

The 214th Coast Artillery, anti-aircraft, will be sent to Savannah along with the newly organized 101st Coast Artillery, which is being formed from units of the old 23rd Cavalry Division.

The 214th, commanded by Colonel John E. Stoddard, former Georgia adjutant general, is expected to enter active duty November 25. The new 101st is commanded by Colonel Joseph B. Fraser, of Hinesville. Both brigades have detachments in coastal towns and have a combined strength of 112 officers and 1,648 men.

Company A of the 193rd Tank Battalion, commanded by Captain Charles F. Heard, will be trained at Fort Benning. Stationed at Forsyth, Company A will be recruited to five officers and 100 men.

The 30th Division, which includes the bulk of Georgia's National Guard, already has been sent to Fort Jackson, S. C., for its training program.

MAJOR L. O. GRICE MADE LIEUTENANT COLONEL

Announcement has been made by the War Department at Washington of the promotion of Major L. O. Grice to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Colonel Grice lived in Atlanta prior to entering the army at Fort McPherson in 1917, where he graduated from the first officers' training camp. During the World War he served with the A. E. F. in France. He is a brother of Loyce D. Grice, of Atlanta, and a relative of Judge Warren Grice, of Macon.

The widely known chaplain, who has been commended again and again for his religious leadership both at the post and as chaplain of the newly formed 2nd Armored Division, was bid farewell by members of the Columbus clergy and brother officers, including Major General Charles L. Scott, commander of the 2nd Armored Division.

Sharing honors with the chaplain was Mrs. Bennett, who was presented with a bouquet of red roses.

Council Likely To Vote Lease Of Field Today

Mayor Urges Speed in Establishing Air Corps Squadron

City council today is expected to approve lease of 20 acres of land at the municipal airport to the federal government for establishment of a new reconnaissance squadron of the army's air corps.

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday called a special session of council for 3 o'clock this afternoon to act on the request of the War Department. The project is the first large undertaking yet taken by the city proper in co-operation in the national defense program, and the mayor is backing it to the limit.

Hartsfield also announced that the city has taken possession of 140 acres of land necessary for a $500,000 extension of runways at the airport to provide facilities for large army bombers, and said he will leave for Washington within the next few days to urge WPA to co-operate in speeding up the work.

Although detailed plans for the reconnaissance project were not tions, including the use of flares, radio, runners and airplanes.

The class started September 16 and will end November 1. Sixty-eight students are enrolled. Captain Bennett C. Bailey is the commanding officer of Headquarters Company, and First Lieutenant Harry F. Sellers of the company is in direct charge of the school instruction. He is assisted by Technical Sergeants Mitchell Johnson and George Lee, Staff Sergeant Jim Allen and Corporals Sam Price and Henry Wilson.

RECENT CHANGES IN BENNING PERSONNEL

Castle, Signal Reserve, arrived for one year's active duty with the 32nd Signal Company (aviation) at Lawson Field; Major Joseph S. Brady, infantry, arrived for duty on the faculty of the Infantry school; Lieutenant Colonel Charles A. Stammel, Medical Corps, who was on duty at the station hospital, departed on leave en route to Fort Lewis, Washington, under change of station orders; Major Robert G. Firm in U. S. Buys Latin Air Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(P)—Acquisition of Transportes Aereos Centros Americanos—largest freight and passenger air service in Central America—by American Export Airlines, Inc., was announced today by John E. Slater, executive vice president of American Export Airlines, and Lowell Yerex, president and principal owner of TACA.

The purchase price was not disclosed, and the transaction is subject to the approval of the Civil Aeronautics Board. The Central American service will be co-ordinated with other operations of American Export Airlines which recently was granted a certificate of convenience and necessity for establishment of a trans-Atlantic air service. The acquisition of TACA will give the New York firm its first flying equipment.

Constance Bennett Will Seek Divorce

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1.—(P)—Constance Bennett will leave tonight for Reno, her representative said, to establish residence so that she may divorce the Marquis de la Falaise de la Coudray.

The Marquis is the actress' third husband. Last reports had the Marquis in Europe, making films. Miss Bennett, eldest of the three daughters of Richard Bennett, eloped with Chester Moorehead in 1921. That marriage was annulled two years later. In 1924, she became the wife of Philip Elan; she divorced him in 1929. Constance and the Marquis were married in 1931. He was the third husband of Gloria Swanson.

Car Catches Fire At Filling Station

An ancient edition of a popular brand of automobile warmed to its work so much early yesterday afternoon that it set fire to gasoline being inserted into its tank just back of the hood.

The hose conveying the fuel from a pump of a filling station at 115 Decatur street then took fire. Booker T. Page, attendant, helped the two male occupants of the machine to put out the two separate blazes, respectively, with dirt and heavy rags.

Meantime, a conscientious citizen notified fire headquarters, and virtually all of the apparatus in downtown Atlanta rushed to the scene. The danger was entirely over, however.

TO PLANT PEAS.

LOUISVILLE, Ga., Oct. 1.—County Agent C. H. Strong said the first car of Austrian winter peas to be planted by Jefferson county farmers has been delivered. Strong said he has enough orders to warrant the ordering of another car, and that this will be done in the near future.

announced, it was said that one large hangar and several barracks buildings are projected for a site on the west side of the airport property not now in use near the College Park city limits.

About 30 army planes, 40 officers and 230 men will be assigned to the unit.

The army proposes to begin clearing the land and constructing the necessary buildings immediately on completion of the lease contract between the municipality and the defense arm, it was reported. Rent on the property will be $1 a year.

Atlanta and Fulton county joined in procuring the 140 acres needed to lengthen the runways and construct new ones, but because of a disagreement between the government and property owners condemnation proceedings were mandatory and acquisition of tract by the city has been delayed.

The two local governments provided $50,000 for land purchase, but special assessors raised the purchase figure to $67,000 and council recently appropriated the necessary additional $17,000. The sum was paid into court several days ago, and the city took possession.

Detailed plans for the improvement are slated to be sent to Washington by the state WPA offices today.

"Meanwhile I am planning a trip to Washington in a few days to see if we can't get immediate action on our present request for WPA aid in grading," the mayor said. "Neither Atlanta nor the federal government can afford to waste any time on so important a project designed to enhance the defenses of our country."

Hartsfield also will ask national offices of WPA to release for early start of work the reconstruction of the approaches to the Edgewood avenue viaduct. City funds for the undertaking have been available for several months, but federal approval of the project has not yet been given.

Alleged Bad Check Artist Is Arrested

The arrest of an alleged bad check artist who operated throughout the south was announced here yesterday by postal authorities who gave credit for the apprehension to Stanley Harper, Griffin police chief.

Held under a $3,000 bond, Jack Dunn Thrash, 34, is said by postal authorities to have confessed to passing "several hundred checks" involving hundreds of dollars through the mails. An accomplice is being hunted in the Atlanta area.

Thrash was arrested when he attempted to cash a $25 check in Griffin Saturday. Harper recognized the recently-released federal prisoner by a look-out from federal authorities.

THE DOLLARS & CENTS COST

For Those Who Figure With Sharp Pencils

Many take at face value advertisements claiming "lowest interest on loans," etc., but the wise man investigates the actual total cost before borrowing. Always ask for the amount in dollars and cents for the time your loan is to run.

In all our advertising, we show the exact cost in dollars and cents, that any loan will cost you, whether it is to run twelve months or twenty-four months.

To illustrate, take these five examples:

Amount of Loan:	Total Interest For Twelve Months:
$ 50.00	5.00
100.00	10.00
200.00	20.00
500.00	50.00
1,000.00	100.00

Two years to repay if you need or want it.

SECURITY: Household Furniture, Automobiles, Diamonds, Endorsers, etc.

We like to make loans. We never turn down a loan unless we absolutely have to. We go out of our way to make loans that seem impossible at first.

HISTORY IN GRAPHIC FORM

The world we live in today was formed and shaped by the events of all of its past history. The struggles of mankind for life, for space, for advantage, for civilization, for protection, for religious ideas—have brought about all the changes of government, shifting of power and populations, from the dawn of history down to this Second World War. As today is the child of all the past, the future will be the result of the past, plus the events of today.

From our Service Bureau at Washington you can obtain in a single packet, a unique series of three Histo-Graphs, invaluable for constant reference. Each of them has required many months of intensive research to produce. They tell the history to that you can remember by associating events. The series of Histo-Graphs includes:

1. HISTO-GRAPH OF ANCIENT EMPIRES—Five thousand years of history from the beginning to the fall of the Roman Empire.
2. HISTO-GRAPH OF AMERICA—The principal events in American history from the Viking voyages to the Roosevelt Administration.
3. PAN-AMERICAN HISTO-GRAPH—The historical development of each of the 21 American Republics and Canada from the earliest discoveries in the Western Hemisphere down to 1940.
